

Who Was Masked Rider...?

Return with us to those thrilling moments of last Thursday. From out of the bus parking lot comes the guttural sound of a Kawasaki. The Masked Rider rides again...

It was like a scene out of "Smokey and The Bandit" but it really happened at Kings Mountain Senior High last Thursday morning.

According to the numerous witnesses the incident took place about 8:35 a. m., shortly after school convened. An unidentified youth decided to let the good times roll as he rode his Kawasaki through the hallowed halls of KMSHS.

Later in an assembly program Principal Forrest Wheeler referred to the youth as "The masked rider."

The youth wore a white crash helmet with goggles over a face mask, a green shirt jacket, dark pants and black riding boots. He gunned his bike out of the bus parking lot, climbed two flights of stairs, roared down the halls and out another door to disappear in a cloud of dust.

The students thought it was hilarious.

The teachers didn't. The Masked Rider had forgotten to register at the office.

Joel Rountree, Bud Bumgardner and Dean Westmoreland quickly went into a huddle while the masked rider cut wheelies in the hallway. They formed a vigilante committee and set out on shank's mare to run the masked man down and bring him to justice. But he got away.

It just goes to show you that when the end of school is near.

New Home

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Potter dedicated their new home on W. Mountain St. Sunday "to the glory of God" in informal ceremonies at 2:30 p. m.

Their pastor, Rev. Robert Boggan, of Central United Methodist Church, officiated. The service was followed by a tour of the restored home, formerly owned by the late Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thomson.

The Potters have recently completed extensive refurbishing and restoration to the two-story home.
