

Ms. Ratterree Keynotes DAR Meeting

The Colonel Frederick Hambricht Chapter of NSDAR met at the home of Mrs. W. L. McMackin Jan. 8 at 8:30 p. m. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Mrs. Tolly Shuford, Regent, led the DAR ritual.

Mrs. H. A. Goforth introduced the speaker, Miss Margaret Ratterree, a member of the Research Division for the Federal Government. Miss Ratterree gave an informative report on "Building For Our Future For Action Today," noting that "Janis, a god of ancient Rome, had two faces, one which looked back into the past, the other, which looked to the future," adding that "on the basis of past decisions is our future determined." She continued that "we are reminded that Harry Truman remarked that all events are history — they just haven't happened yet."

Said Miss Ratterree, "our society has taken pride in the divergence of heritage which its individuals have brought to our country, and these same divergencies have been the stepping stones to a great United States because they had a common goal. The desire to be constructive has led them to use their talents, to preserve worthwhile traditions, and preserve an atmosphere in which an individual might freely express himself. However, it is timely to be aware that our strengths could become our weakness if we become complacent in our lifestyle, or over-react or misinterpret our laws. For the strength of a nation is in her individuals, and their weakness becomes that of a nation. The weakness of a nation makes her vulnerable to stronger nations. Our hope is in our youth, and their ability to recognize individual responsibility and to uphold the axiom of "man created equal" in value.

New Fashion Trends Are Returning To The 1950s

Dresses in the 50's trend are returning to the fashion scene for Spring 1979.

And, it appears that the working woman is turning fashion around in New Year fashion predictions, the women's wear industry responding to the working woman's need to express her individuality.

We've noticed in the local stores that there's a major trend back to the 50's with button-down collar Villager look in dresses which have a lean, steamlined look, soft and pretty.

The blousing and gathered look appear to be as popular for spring as the look was for Fall and fashion forecasters see the blazer still going strong for spring, in most every fabric. The dirndl skirt may be replaced with a more stylish slender skirt, according to fashion writers, and the classic shirtdress is still "in."

Buyers are still finding fuller looks instead of the new slender fashion and report that women not ready to give up their roomy fashions can get by another season.
