TO LEAD WORKSHOP - Artist Raymond Williams of Kingsport, Tenn., will lead a water color workshop Saturday at the Kings Mountain Community Center. The workshop is being sponsored by the Working Artists Guild of Cleveland County.

Water Color Workshop Scheduled This Week

The Cleveland County Working Artists Guild will sponsor a water color workshop November 12 and 13.

The November 12 workshop will be held at the Historical Museum in Shelby and the November 13 workshop will be at the Kings Mountain Community Center. Both workshops are free to the public.

Raymond Williams of Kingsport, Tenn., will do a water color demonstration on Saturday the 13th from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. and will also guide students in doing their own water colors. There will be a small fee for supplies.

Williams is a graduate of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and spent over 20 years as a commercial artist for a large industrial firm. He then entered the fine arts field in which he combined his commercial discipline and know-how with the freedom and beauty of fine arts.

His academic knowledge of painting, coupled with a lifetime of exposure to Southern Appalachia, resulted in distinctive captivating characteristics which are rarely found in artist interpretations. These qualities have assured him wide acclaim expressed in the form of many awards, special commissions and one-man shows.

He is listed in Who's Who in American Art and his paintings can be found in businesses, homes, and institutions throughout the United States and many foreign countries. He is a member of the International Society of Artists, Tennessee Artist, Kingsport Art Guild and the Tennessee Watercolor Society.

Williams has won a number of awards in 1982, including the Best of Show at the Kingsport Arts and Crafts Mart, the Realist Award in Lynchburg, Va., an Award of Merit and the Most Popular Painting Award at the Virginia Highlands Festival. He exhibited at the World's Fair the last week of June and first week of July.

The workshop here is sponsored by a grant from the Grassroots Arts Council of North Carolina. For more information, call Jim Downey at 739-3148.
