Telethon Is Slated

The "Lou Rawls Parade of Stars" television fundraising special will be aired Saturday, to benefit the United Negro College Fund. The three-hour variety special will be aired locally, from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m. by WBTV-Channel 3. WBTV is part of UNCF's national network of more than 60 stations to carry the Parade of Stars. Due to generous support of individual contributors, business/corporate donors and contributions from churches, clubs and organizations, the Parade of Stars is one of WBTV's most successful on-air public service and promotional project, according to Ken Koontz, WBTV's Director of Community Affairs.

There are three UNCF-member schools in the WBTV viewing area: Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte; Barber-Scotia College, Concord; and Livingstone College, Salisbury.

WBTV personalities Mike McKay and Ken Koontz will again be local hosts for the WBTV Lou Rawls Parade of Stars.
