

Customer Discounts

Postal Service customers who order the 1984 National Five Digit Zip Code and Post Office Directory no later than November 20, will receive a discount, according to Postmaster Fred Weaver.

By ordering a directory or directories early, the postmaster explained, customers will get each for $8.00 instead of the $9.00 they will cost when the directories go on sale at the post office in January. Early orders also will result in direct mailing of directories to customers from the publisher in January, either in single copy or cast lots.

In addition, Weaver said, a $1.00 trade-in discount for old directory covers is being offered, and case lots will get one free directory per case as a discount.

Order forms for the directories are available at the Kings Mountain Post Office.

THANKSGIVING

Debbie Mauney Opens Children's 'Castoff' Shop

"Pete and Repete," a children's shop which opened last week at 606 W. King Street, will offer the yard sale alternative for recycling children's castoffs.

"I'm excited about offering the community a modern day approach to 'smaller family' clothing distribution. I've tried to create an atmosphere where people can come in and browse, get something new or different," stated Debbie Mauney, the store owner.

By placing used children's articles such as clothing, toys, athletic equipment, baby furniture, and accessories in the store on a consignment basis mothers can usefully recycle those children's articles that are left stored in garages and attics. "Often sizes can jump two or three times during a year's 'growing spurt' and parents are left with practically new clothing and no immediate relatives or friends of that size to pass it on to. I'm offering a way to recoup some of that investment," Debbie further stated.

The shop will also include rentals of such items as car seats, bassinets, and portable cribs on a one week basis. "The rental items will mainly be for out of town guests, grandparents who need a car seat for a weekend, or new mom's who would need a bassinet for a short period."

The shop will also have new gift items, handmade crafts and some new clothing. "I've tried to create a shop that caters to my needs as a mother. For example, I plan to offer ready wrapped children's gifts for moms on their way to a birthday party or for someone whose on their way to the hospital to see a newborn." Debbie is also accepting handmade children's gifts on a consignment basis.

"Being aware of the growing cost of children's clothing, I feel this approach will offer the community a quality selection of used but not abused items. I hope the people will consider my system and drop by or telephone for more details," she said in conclusion.

Debbie Mauney is a graduate of Kings Mountain High School. Opening this shop has been her ambition for many years. She is the wife of Kemp Mauney and mother of two children; Mary Amelia age 1, and William Kemp, IV age 4. She is a member of St. Matthews Lutheran Church where she is active in the choir and has served as past Secretary of Lutheran Church Women of America. She is currently a member of the Kings Mountain Women's Club and was selected for 1982 "Outstanding Young Women in America."

Ann Harbison Wins Textile Week Contest

Textile Week Activities at Limestone College included faculty, staff and student participation in a textile contest and textile career forum.

Three College Students received Belk of Gaffney gift certificates from the Textile Week Promotion Fund for their winning textile displays. The fashion merchandizing class at the college was selected to compete in a textile design display contest using American-made fabrics donated by Gaffney textile plants, Mognolia, Hamrick, TNS, Gaffney Manufacturing, Wendell, and Oxford.

Ann Harbison of Kings Mountain won first place; Sharon Wilkins of Wellford, second and Bryan Crawford of Cheraw received third place.

Judges for the design contest were Nancy Van Buren, designer for Hamricks, Inc. and member of the Limestone Board of Advisors, Ron Owenby, general manager of WAGI and member of the Saints Club Board of Directors and Rebecca S. Miles, director of development at Limestone.

A faculty forum was also held guests, M.O. Brown, personnel manager for Lowenstein and Herb Jordan, personnel director for Milliken's Cherokee County operations. Brown and Jordan lead a discussion on textile opportunities for liberal arts graduates. Several faculty asked questions about textile careers, employment trends and interview techniques useful to college graduates. Dr. William Briggs, Limestone's president, closed the forum by suggesting that textiles and higher education must be stronger partners in county development efforts.
