The crutch palsy condition

Improper use of crutches can cause a condition known as crutch palsy, with numbness and weakness of the hands and arms.

The problem occurs when the weight of the body rests on the underarm (axillary) pads pressuring the nerves and blood vessels, rather than supporting the body's weight on the handgrips. It is understood that crutch length adjusts for your comfort.

WHIPLASH

Whiplash injuries can result from a sudden backward and forward whipping movement of the neck, caused by an auto collision, a fall, a powerful slap on the back, or even a violent sneeze. The ligaments and muscles controlling the spinal segments are stretched or sprained, allowing the vertebrae to slip into abnormal positions. Nerves are then "pinched" or irritated, giving rise to headaches, nausea, dizziness and other pain.
