

Newspaper Education Week Set

Next week is Newspaper in Education Week in the five elementary schools in the Kings Mountain School District.

Mayor John Henry Moss has proclaimed March 5-9 as "Newspaper in Education Week" in Kings Mountain and classroom teachers will use the newspaper in different activities and learning projects.

Ronald Nanney, principal of Bethware Elementary School, is chairman of the project in the local schools. The program is sponsored each year by the International Reading Association.

Tips on how to use the newspaper in the classroom are sent to Nanney by the I.R.A. and he passes them along to classroom teachers, as well as in discussions with other principals.

Some classrooms will actually develop their own school newspaper next week with students serving as feature writers, editors, publishers, and other personnel found in the newspaper industry.

Some schools plan to have a special time during the week when all subjects will be taught from the newspaper. Although the middle through high school grades do not put the special emphasis on learning through newspapers that the elementary schools do, English teachers in secondary schools are encouraged to use the newspaper in some way during the week.

Students are being urged to bring newspapers from home during the week, and in some cases teachers will obtain copies of newspapers so all students will be working from the same publication.

"The end result is to make the students more aware of the value of the newspaper and to understand the different parts of the newspaper so they'll be able to use it to meet their personal needs," Nanney said. "They will not only be urged to read it for information and news, but to know where to look and what to look for in classifieds, social news, and high interest kinds of things, and to relate to special activities and events."

By the end of the week, teachers hope they will have encouraged the students "to make the reading of newspapers a part of their every day lives and to become life-long readers of the newspaper," Nanney said.

PROCLAMATION NEWSPAPER-IN-EDUCATION WEEK

WHEREAS, The American Newspaper Publishers Association and the International Reading Association have designated March 5-9 as Newspaper-in-Education Week; and

WHEREAS, Newspaper-in-Education program have been implemented by over 500 United States papers, with publications offered for schoolroom use at halfprice, along with free teacher and students supplements; and

WHEREAS, The goal of the programs is to develop future generations of informed and intelligent newspaper readers and to promote appreciation of the newspaper's role in the democratic society; and

WHEREAS, The Kings Mountain Herald will participate in the week's observance by offering special educational events, and the North Carolina Press Association will help many papers develop programs;

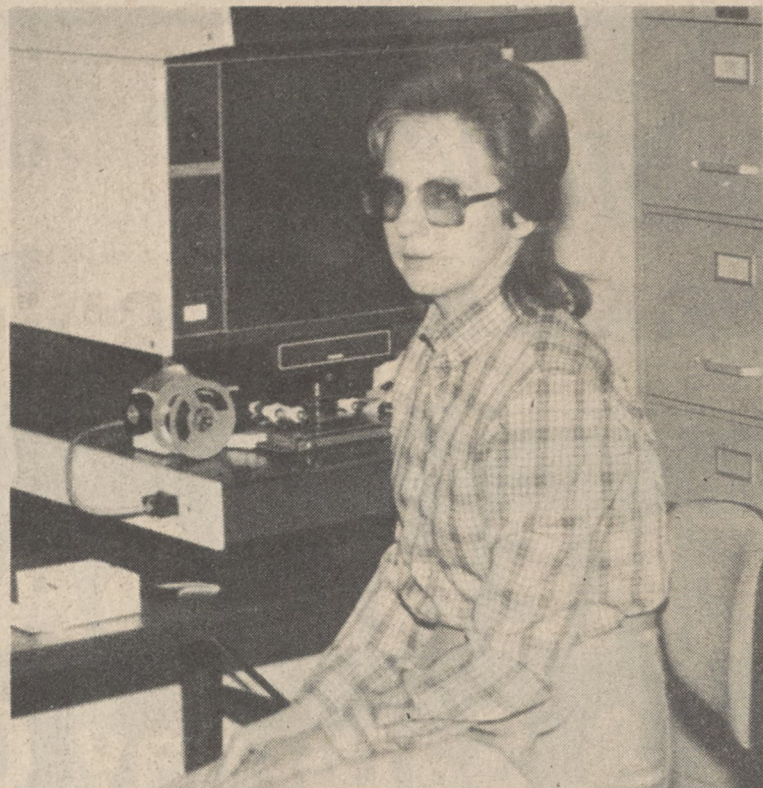

NOW, THEREFORE, I, John Henry Moss, Mayor of the City of Kings Mountain on this, the 29th day of February, 1984, that I do hereby proclaim March 5-9, 1984, as

Newspaper-In-Education Week In Kings Mountain

and urge all citizens to take cognizance of the special events arranged for this time in recognition of the newspaper as an educational tool.

KIWANIS SPEAKER

Dr. Avery McMurray, Shelby physician and representative of the American Cancer Society, presented the program Thursday's meeting of the Kings Mountain Kiwanis Club at the Woman's Club.

NEW SERVICE AT LIBRARY - Rose Turner, Librarian at Jacob S. Mauney Memorial Library, is pictured at a reader printer which is part of a new service the library is offering to the public. The Kings Mountain herald, which was first published in 1889, is now being microfilmed and readers have opportunity to get copies of stories from the microfilm via the reader printer.

Library Preserving History Of City

Jacob S. Mauney Memorial Library is currently in process of microfilming newspapers to help preserve the history of the community.

Mrs. Rose Turner, Librarian, said that papers are needed under date of before 1913 and from 1920 through 1934, the week of January 26, 1938, July through December 1978 and January through June 1980.

The Kings Mountain Herald was first published in 1889. The Library has currently on loan from Herald Publishing House a number of bound files which were accumulated during the years that the late Haywood E. Lynch and the late Martin L. Harmon, Jr. owned and operated the Herald. Mr. Harmon, who owned the Herald from 1940-1973, also had provided the Library with microfilm of some copies. Mrs. Turner said that these copies from 1947-68 are now on film and that a new reader printer has been purchased to make copies for the public of the microfilmed pages.

Mrs. Turner said the reader printer and microfilming will be paid for through a $10,214.86 Bicentennial grant which the Library received. The microfilming is a project of the Library Board which includes June (Mrs. Will) Herndon, president; Laura Houser, Margaret McCarter, Charles F. Mauney, Grady K. Howard, and Rev. M.L. Campbell. Mrs. Grady helped proofread the film, said Mrs. Turner.

Mrs. Turner said that the Library has added 334 books, 237 of them juvenile books; to its collection and that 2,461 patrons visited the Library during the months of December and January. She said that circulation during the two months was 3,029. Citizens are invited to use the three reading rooms at the Library and the Carolina Room, where family histories and North Carolina books are housed. The genealogical and local history collection was donated in memory of Mrs. Bonnie Mauney Summers, a noted historian. Readers are also invited to check out the books about North Carolina history.

Another new service to readers is a Pre-School Story Hour which began in January

Real Estate Group Forms

From Page 1-A

ander and Charlene Ellis are presently members of the Cleveland County Board but are transferring to the local group which they are assisting in organizing.

The proposed multiple listing service was explained by Charlene Ellis and Betty Morris. The listing of properties by all realtors in this area will provide an invaluable service to clients and bring a more professional approach to the public and set the direction of all realtors to work together, they said.

Next meeting of the group will be on March 19th at noon at Holiday Inn.

DOWNTOWN KINGS MOUNTAIN

FINAL CLEARANCE

OF ALL WINTER
MERCHANDISE

Reductions

To

75%
Off

TAKE HOME YOUR NEW RANGER

#84-1536

You Can
TRADE WITH WADE

8 4x4's IN STOCK

AS LOW AS

$8,195

Full Delivered
Price In Kings
Mountain

FORD
AMERICA'S NO. 1
SELLING TRUCK

WADE FORD

910 SHELBY ROAD PHONE 739-4743
KINGS MOUNTAIN, NORTH CAROLINA 28086