KINGS MOUNTAIN, NORTH CAROLINA

BRIBING THE JUDGE - Tom Trott tries to bribe the judge, C.A. Allison, with a "buckeye" during a plea-bargaining attempt during last weekend's Jail-A-Thon for the American Cancer Society. Trott was found guilty and raised $200 for cancer by calling on his friends to bail him out of jail.

Tuesday Election Day In County

Kings Mountain area citizens will go to the polls Tuesday to settle races from the local to the national level in what may be a record turnout in Number 4 Township and Cleveland County.

A total of 7,975 voters in this area will help settle Democratic and Republic Primaries and for the first time ever will vote in a Republican Primary in the county commissioner race.

Polls open at 6:30 a.m. and close at 7:30 p.m. The voting places are the same as in the prior years: West Kings Mountain at the Armory, East Kings Mountain at the Community Center, Grover at the Fire Station and Bethware at Bethware School. Voting machines are used at all precincts here except at Grover. In Grover voters will be given eight paper ballots. All other precinct workers will distribute seven machine ballots to each voter.

Election officials are: Grover-Mary Birkovich, registrar and Jeanette Rountree and Martha Fortenberry, judges; East KM, Margaret White, registrar, and Denise Jalis and Grace Talbert, judges; West KM, Rebecca Cooke, registrar, and Lewis Hovis and Geraldine Myers, judges; Bethware-Hilda Goforth, registrar, and Wayne Ware and Jack Anthony, judges.

Among races attracting the most attention are Cleveland County commissioner primaries, Cleveland County school board election, gubernatorial primaries, and Democratic presidential preference. Thirteen Democrats and four Republicans are vying for three spots on each party's ticket in the November general election for county commissioner. The Democrat race is one of the largest fields ever and the GOP has offered enough candidates for a rare Republican primary for commissioner.

Chief interest here centers in the candidacy of incumbent Senator J. Ollie Harris, who is running again for his seat in the 25th Senatorial District; on Joyce Falls Cashion, who seeks a seat on the county board of commissioners and is a past chairman of Cleveland County Democratic Party; Bruce Scism, who also seeks a seat in the 25th Senatorial District opposing incumbents Harris, Helen Rhyne the lieutenant governor and governor's race.

Democrats will have a choice of 10 candidates in the race for governor of North Carolina. They are Rufus Edmisten, D. M. Lauch Faircloth, Thomas O. Gilmore, James C. Jimmy

Shriners Paper Sale Slated This Weekend

The annual White Plains Shrine Club paper sale will be conducted Thursday through Sunday at Harris Teeter, Eckerd's, TG&Y and Winn Dixie.

Tom Tindall, president of the local Shrine Club, said Shriners and other volunteer workers will be in front of the above-named businesses between 2 and 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday, all day Saturday and between 2 and 6 p.m. Sunday. All proceeds will go to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Greenville, S.C.

Tindall said Shriners can be identified by the red fezes. Others selling papers for the Shriners will be members of the Kings Mountain Eastern Star and Kings Mountain Rainbow Girls. They can be identified by special Shriners ribbons.

This is the ninth year that Shriners from all across the nation have sold their newspapers to the general public to raise funds for hospitals for crippled and burned children.

According to Oasis Potentate D.D. Phillips Jr. of Charlotte, it took in excess of $96 million to operate the 19 orthopedic hospitals and three burn institutes last year. He stated that the 1984 budget is $162 million, which includes an operating budget of $110 million and a construction and equipment budget of $52 million.

Shriners have helped more than 281,000 since their first hospital opened in 1922 in Shreveport, La. Over 10,000 children have been treated in the three burn hospitals which were begun in 1966.

The newspapers the Shriners will be offering will tell the story of the hospitals and children who have been helped in North Carolina.

Jail-A-Thon Success

Kings Mountain area citizens pledged over $10,000 to the American Cancer Society during a two-day Jail-A-Thon last Thursday and Friday in Kings Mountain.

"It was our most successful effort in this area," said Cleveland

County Cancer Society Executive Secretary Kay Holshouser. Mrs. Holshouser said when full reports of cash and pledges are received that the total will reach an all-time high. Kings Mountain Senior High students raised $1500 during Holy Week in a special cancer fund-raiser and memorials to the late Bobby Suber and other Kings Mountain cancer victims are swelling the totals, said Mrs. Holshouser. "We are very grateful for the tremendous support during this second annual Jail-A-Thon and for the tremendous support of the many volunteers who worked and played hard to reap these rewards."

Judges for the fun part of the project were Jimmy Dickey, who hosted the Jail-A-Thon in his downtown business Mountain Builders Supply, North School Principal C.A. Allison Schools Supt. Bill Davis and Jay H. Patterson. They earned the titles of 'hanging judges' as the many defendants who came before their bench can attest. Fines ranged from $500 to $50.

Serving as the steering committee for the benefit were Lyvonne Strickland of Park Yarn Mills, Darrell Austin of The Kings Mountain Herald, Zeb Plonk, and Kings Mountain Police Chief Jackie Barrett.

Six members of the Kings Mountain Police Department, including the Chief, and six members of the Cleveland County Sheriff's Department, including Sheriff Buddy McKinney, helped bring in the culprits to the makeshift jail. Serving warrants were Chief Barrett, Assistant Police Chief Bob

Grady Howard. "Whether they be employees, volunteers, visitors or trustees, they are all people who are the Caring Kind. They are people who care about one another and about the community. It is their commitment to caring that we celebrate this week."

Kings Mountain Hospital has planned a number of activities to observe National Hospital Week and to honor and encourage employees and volunteers.

Ribbons will be worn by all employees during hospital week which state "We're the Caring Kind."

Tray cards will be placed on patient meal trays which state "You're Among The Caring Kind."

Tours of the hospital will be conducted by hospital personnel upon request at the receptionist desk in the lobby of the hospital.

KM Hospital Helping Note Hospital Week

With the announcement, "We're the Caring Kind," Kings Mountain Hospital joins hospitals throughout the nation next week in celebrating National Hospital Week 1984 May 6-12.

"The 1984 National Hospital Week theme pays tribute to the special kind of people we have at Kings Mountain Hospital," said KMH Administrator

Bloodmobile To Visit On Thursday

The Cleveland County Bloodmobile will be at Kings Mountain High School Thursday from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Donors will be processed in B.N. Barnes Auditorium. The goal is 200 pints.

All persons who are eligible to give blood at this visit are encouraged to participate.

Stewart Campaigns In Area

Carl Stewart, Gaston County native, brought his campaign for lieutenant-governor to Kings Mountain Monday and asked for support of citizens he contacted.

He said he is giving the race for lieutenant governor what it needs - a vigorous discussion of key issues likely to come before the state Senate in the mid 1980s and that he has campaigned on a daily basis, not missing a day, in the past year.

Stewart, Gastonia lawyer and former two term Speaker of the House of Representatives, is attempting a comeback after his defeat in the Democratic primary for lieutenant governor in 1980.
