Hutchings: KM Rescue Doing Best

Rescue Squad to discuss the matter. Hutchins said that many names on the petition are from outside the Oak Grove area and some of those are names of children.

Hutchins said that at the specific incident recently in which Mrs. Ellis claimed there was inadequate response there was not an EMT to dispatch but that a Rescue Squad member went to the scene. The Shelby Rescue Squad EMT was then called to the scene, he said. Hutchins said that KM has only 11 EMT volunteers, the fewest EMTs of any of the county's five squads. He said the three paid employees, who work during the day, were not on duty. Barry Dellinger was recovering from surgery, Roy Hanna was in a Charlotte hospital with his father-in-law and Russell Falls was on crutches. Responding to the charge that donations come from the public, Hutchins said that only $85 had been donated this year and $50 came from a squad member's family. He said that squads receive 25 cents per mile for each transport of a patient.

Hutchins said that Mrs. Ellis expressed the concern that the Squad had not responded quickly to calls from the Oak Grove area. She had been listening to the scanner, she told him during a telephone conversation this week. Hutchins says that volunteers come from their homes at all hours of the night and that no one is on duty at the Squad Headquarters during evening hours. Calls are handled by a dispatcher at the Police Department and an ambulance is summoned. Hutchins also said that some of the Oak Grove petitioners told him they were under the impression that the petition was to go directly to the Rescue Squad. "They told me they wanted to get us more support from the county commission."

"We need more volunteers badly and good, qualified people. We also need more input from the community and community support," he added.

Ask About Wildlife

QUESTION: For a couple of weeks now, I've had a problem with a woodpecker at my home. It arrives at about the same time each morning, lands on the side of the house and begins hammering away. Is there any way to rid myself of the bird and the damage it's doing without harming it?

ANSWER: Woodpeckers are generally attracted to building for two reasons: to forage for insects that sometimes infest wood siding, and to use the buildings as substitutes for hollow trees to sound out their territories during the mating and nesting season.

Non-lethal controls include treating wood siding for insect infestations, covering holes or "starts" with sheet metal or wire as soon as they are detected, and deadening sound by placing padding behind drumming sites. Visual repellents such as rubber snakes, hawk silhouettes and aluminum strips placed near drumming sites are sometimes effective in scaring the birds away.

Woodpeckers are federally protected migratory birds and can be killed only after a federal permit has been obtained, even if caught damaging a house.

WBTV's Bob Inman In Town Thursday

BOB INMAN

WBTV's news anchor, Bob Inman, will visit Kings Mountain for his "Hometown Carolina" feature Thursday.

If weather permits, Bob and his camera crew will fly to Kings Mountain on "Sky 3", WBTV's helicopter. At 3:30, they will be located on Main Street in downtown Kings Mountain, where Bob will be meeting and greeting local townspeople.

The feature will be seen Tues., May 15 on WBTV's 6 o'clock news.

Inman is visiting Carolina towns and cities to meet the people who live in them, to discover what issues they are concerned with, and to learn what's good about their hometown.
