By ERIC FAUST
Pastor,
First Presbyterian Church

of the Kings Mountain
Ministerial Association.

DR. ERIC FAUST

On a cold day in December I was standing by the tripod holding up the galvanized bucket. I was idly clanging the cheap bell that was used to attract attention to the bucket, to the sign that proclaimed in rather dingy letters: "Helping Hand Fund." The bucket was there for people to toss money into which would be used by the Kings Mountain Ministerial Association to play a small part in the funding of the Food Bank at the Community Center. This Food Bank is used to help provide food help for families who need a helping hand; and applications may be obtained through most local ministers.

As I stood there, wishing people a Merry Christmas or a good evening, and making a shivering attempt to look cheerful, an observation was made. The large majority of the people just walked right on past, eyes looking away, mumbling a Merry Christmas in response, but hurrying on into the store or out to the car in the parking lot. So few participated in giving. So few are able to catch a larger vision and concept of extending the strong hand of care and blessing. Interested?

Did you know that in the first six months of 1984 the Food Bank has served almost as many people as it did in the whole of 1983? Did you know that double the money has not come in to purchase the food. Folks, we are talking between 2,000 and 4,000 per month. Interested? Contact a local minister who is a member

A friend and I were talking about the convenience of abortion for the girls and women who are inconveniently pregnant. To be sure there are certain eternal consequences that must be addressed, but the real heart of our conversation developed when the question was posed, "What is the Christian alternative to abortion?"

Needless to say if some sort of moral integrity, some sort of value of relationship had been a foundation for living, the pregnancy would not have happened. And even though it did, it is not the unforgivable malady which the self-righteous like to impose. That wasn't the question of our discussion either, although it too should be addressed.

The question "What is the Christian alternative to abortion?" continues to be asked, today. The Christian and the Christian church are very slow in answering.

I believe that the answer is one of great commitment and service in the Name of Jesus Christ; an answer that would be manifest in several directions. What if there were a network of Christian homes set up especially for the care of these mothers-in-waiting, yet who have been rejected from their own homes, or whose home environment is unhealthy...? What if there were Christian families willing to take in a pregnant young teen? What if there were a Christian family willing to take in an abused wife, pregnant again but scared to return to the brutality of so-called husband? What if there were an encouragement to give birth to that unwanted baby and place that young life for adoption into a family who would be most eager to adopt a new son or daughter? What if the Christians of Kings Mountain were able to unite to provide such a ministry? What if the Christians and the churches in Kings Mountain would build some loving and effective ways to serve in the name of Jesus Christ?

Interested? Speak to your local minister, your church officers!

Interested enough to do something? In the name of Christ, the serving begins with you.

Info System Developed For Self-Help Groups

Raleigh - The North Carolina Department of Human Resources is now developing a comprehensive statewide information system about self help/mutual support groups in North Carolina in order to provide better communication and faster local assistance to citizens in need of help.

Representatives from all self help/mutual support groups throughout the state are asked to call Janie Hinson toll-free at CARELINE (1-800-662-7020) and provide her with the latest information about their various groups.

Self help/mutual support is a grass roots volunteer movement designed to provide emotional and psychological support to individuals undergoing crisis in their lives, according to Rose Kittrell, a program consultant in the Division of Mental Health, Mental Retardation, and Substance Abuse Services' Office of Prevention.
