percent are enrolled in community colleges in this area. Seventy meet the needs of special students. Raising the performance expectations of vocational students is another goal and awards and recognition will enhance the program as well as a continued follow up on vocational graduates.

Last year's graduates in vocational education were surveyed recently and of the graduating class 40 percent are in full time employment, 22 percent are in part time employment, and 50 five percent of the graduates said the vocational program was "very useful", rating the program 4.0 average on a score of 1-5. Mrs. Gamble said the report is "excellent", comparing the local averages with the state wide figures of unemployment among young people 16-18 where 21.2 percent of Cleveland county's youth are unemployed. She also said a filmstrip on the vocational programs available at KMHS would be made available in the community as well as informational brochures.

Mrs. Gamble said the 1984 graduates also indicated in the survey that they would have liked to have learned more math, more manual skills, increased vocabulary training, more spelling skills, more specific job and leadership skills and how to get along more with others in the vocational courses. A total of 29 percent said the vocational program kept them from becoming high school dropouts and their employers also gave them good grades, 78 percent saying they were well pleased with work activity and 80 percent reporting they were highly pleased with work attitudes of KMSHS graduates.

up at Gaston Memorial or one of the Charlotte hospitals or Cleveland Memorial for several hours at a time while the patient is having diagnostic xrays or treatments. What I'm looking for is the people of Kings Mountain and the surrounding area", he told the board.

Commissioner L.E. Hinnant of Kings Mountain said the KM squad "has been unduly criticized for its need to ask other rescue squads for assistance." He said he has received a lot of calls. "We need to help them out. These boys have been unjustly crucified", said Hinnant.

Upon motion by Chairman Jack Palmer, seconded by Hinnant, the commissioners voted unanimously to hire an additional EMT for the Squad on full time basis. Commissioners agreed to provide the necessary funds through the county's emergency and contingency fund.

Beulah Legan Anderson; four sons, Douglas Anderson, Joseph Gunn Anderson, Gurney Gunn Anderson, and Forney Canipe Anderson, all of Kings Mountain; four daughters, Mrs. Shelia Darnell Wilson, Mrs. Elaine Strickland, Miss Sherrie Collins Anderson, and Miss Candi Canipe Anderson, all of Kings Mountain; one brother, Arthur Anderson of Kings Mountain; 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.
