Board Approves Street Maintenance Program

Kings Mountain city commissioners Monday night approved the city's participation in a state program of evaluating and making suggestions for the management of city streets.

Cost to the city will be $1,650 maximum, said Mayor John Henry Moss who presented the program for the Institute for Transportation Research and Education.

The program was developed three years ago by William Friday, President of the University of North Carolina, and Bill Babcock, head of the Department of Transportation Roads System. The program has proved beneficial to the state roads system and cities which have participated in the low-cost evaluation program.

ITRE officials work with local officials to inventory all city streets and work out a plan of maintenance.

Mayor Moss said the program will allow the city to map all of its city streets and plan "short and long-term capital improvement programs" for the 54.7 miles of city streets.

ITRE will conduct a series of workshops in December and January which the mayor, public works director and street department foreman will attend.

"This is one of the best programs I've seen," commented District IV Commissioner Norman King.

District VI Commissioner Jim Dickey added, "Anytime you can initiate a maintenance program it will save money in the long run."

In other action Monday night, the board:

*Received a petition from six property owners on Sterling Street requesting paving of the street from Cansler Street to the dead end. The six property owners also signed a letter stating that they would share the expense of paving the portion of the street which is owned by Clyde J. Bridges.

*Approved advertising for bids for one model 185 air compressor for the Kings Mountain Natural Gas Department.

*Was told by Mayor Moss that Cleveland Tech would be sponsoring a number of management courses for department heads, front line foremen, commissioners and the mayor, and that UNC-Charlotte would be conducting seminars for department heads in November and December. The board approved Kings Mountain employees participating in the classes and seminars.

*Was told by Moss that the Energy Committee is in the process of organizing its 1984-85 energy conservation program and has set a goal of cutting last year's energy consumption by 20 percent. "That's a goal that is quite high but I'm sure all of us will want to chip in and do our part to conserve," Moss said.

Textile Week Is Underway

This is Textile Week in Kings Mountain and North Carolina as the textile industry focuses on its contributions to the economy and the livelihood of its people.

A number of events have been scheduled throughout the state to draw attention to the textile industry. The annual Textile Bowl football game between Clemson and N.C. State will climax the activities Saturday at Raleigh's Carter Stadium.

Locally, individual textile plants are providing tours for schools and other interested groups, and many textile executives are going into the classrooms to educate the public on the contributions of the industry to society.

Mayor John Henry Moss and the City Board of Commissioners proclaimed this week as Textile Week in Kings Mountain during Monday night's meeting of the city board.

In North Carolina, textiles provides over 217,000 jobs and an annual payroll of over $82 million and generates thousands of other jobs and millions in payroll through related industries.

DR. JOSEPH ZUCKER

Zucker Opens Office

Dr. Joseph Zucker, orthopedic doctor, will open his office Monday, Oct. 29, in the Professional Park on West King Street.

Dr. Zucker comes to Kings Mountain from Montreal, Canada, where he has just completed five years of orthopedic residency at the Royal Victoria Hospital. He received his undergraduate degree from McGill University and his medical degree from Dalhousie University.

Dr. Zucker and his wife, Linda, have occupied a home in Kings Mountain.

Sonya Carrousel Princess

KMSHS Senior student Sonya Condrey will represent Kings Mountain in the Carolinas Carrousel Parade Thanksgiving Day in Charlotte.

Miss Condrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Condrey of Grover, was nominated by a homeroom to compete with other young women in the high school in a personal interview and was chosen on the basis of her interview, poise, appearance, vocalism, extra-curricular activities and academic standing. Miss Condrey ranks 24 in a class of 280.

The dark brown haired hazel-eyed 17-year-old student is active in the Beta Club, FCA, Keyettes, Pep Club, Varsity Cheerleading squad as mascot, Red Cross club and Science Club. Her interest and hobbies are swimming, tennis, skiing, hiking and nature and animals.

After graduation from KMSHS she plans to attend North Carolina State University, majoring in veterinary medicine and minoring in zoology.

Miss Condrey will ride in the Thanksgiving Day parade in Charlotte and will participate in other activities in connection with the 1984 Carrousel activities.

Man Robbed Monday At Holiday Inn

A Florida man who is staying at the Kings Mountain Holiday Inn while working with Carolina Freight in Cherryville was robbed of almost $10,000 worth of jewelry and cash Monday night at the Holiday Inn.

Richard Carr of Jacksonville, Fla., told Kings Mountain police that he was approached from behind by a black man after he got off of an elevator at the hotel.

Carr said he was told not to turn around. He said he at first thought he was the target of a joke but then felt a revolver placed to the back of his head.

Carr said he was forced to unlock his room and empty his suitcase and briefcase. He was robbed of $350 cash and $9,400 worth of jewelry, including an $8,800 Presidential Rolex wristwatch.

Officers Jerry Kates, Gary Sale and James Camp of the Kings Mountain Police Department are investigating the robbery. They are looking for a black man who is about 6-feet tall and weighs 150 to 160 pounds.

City police also reported a rash of breaking, entering and larcenies and other incidents.

Donald Conner Jr., 211 West Mountain Street, reported that someone broke into his residence and stole a rifle valued at $90.

Ronald Lee, 8 Dixie Trailer

Park, reported that someone broke into his home and stole a television set valued at $700.

Leigh Ann Latham, 606 Bridges Drive, reported that someone broke her front screen door which was valued at $50.

Floyd Lovelace, 319 Wilson Terrace, reported that someone stole two pairs of jeans off his clothes line. Value was $50.

Elizabeth Lynch, 507 East Ridge Street, reported the theft of a stereo.

William Carpenter, Route 2, reported that someone stole an assortment of tools, a radio and speakers from his car while it was parked at the Pantry at Linwood and Cleveland Avenue.

Garland Johnson, 211 North Dilling Street, reported that someone stole a boat motor off his back porch. Value of the motor was $800.

Carolyn Pilkington, 824 Second Street, reported that someone broke into her home and stole a TV and receiver, clock, stereo and albums. Total value was $510.

Central Beauty Shop, 302 North Gaston Street, reported that someone broke into its building and stole a $250 TV set and $50 cash.

Korner Pantry, King Street, reported that someone pumped $5 worth of gas and left without paying.

Man Dies From Fall At PTL Work Project

Calvin Frederick (Freddie) Waldt, 37, of the Love Valley Church Community near Kings Mountain, died Thursday after he fell 12 feet from a building platform at the Heritage USA retreat in Fort Mill, S.C. while building a residential home at Heritage, run by the PTL television ministry.

Graveside services were conducted Saturday afternoon in the family cemetery in Kings Mountain by Rev. Floyd Seay.

According to the York County Sheriff's Department, Waldt fell and struck his head on the pavement and was taken to the Piedmont Medical Center in Rock Hill where he died shortly thereafter. The death was ruled accidental.

He was a veteran of the USAF and son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall G. Waldt of Kings Mountain.

Surviving, in addition to his parents, are his wife, Linda Kimble Waldt; a son, John C. Waldt, of the home; and a brother, Marshall Waldt of Gastonia.

York, S.C. Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Seay Contest Winner

David Seay of P.O. Box 655, Kings Mountain, took the $100 prize in last week's Herald football contest.

Seay beat out three other contestants by coming closest to the tie-breaking score of 60 points in the Kings Mountain-South Point game. South Point won 34-26.

Seay won out over Hubert L. Dixon Jr. of Route 2, Mooresboro, David Hughes of Route 4, Kings Mountain, and Devoil Butcher of Route 6, Kings Mountain.

All four men picked 18 of 20 winners of area high school and college games. Seay picked 40 points on the tie-breaker, Dixon 37, Hughes 35 and Butcher 30.

Seay missed Auburn's win over Georgia Tech and R-S Central's victory over North Gaston. Dixon missed Cherryville's loss to Bandys and West Virginia's victory over Boston College. Hughes missed Virginia's win over Wake Forest and Cherryville's loss to Bandys and Butcher missed Cherryville's loss to Bandys and Asheville's loss to Hunter Huss.

Other winners were Clemson over Duke, UNC over State, Ashbrook over Freedom, Newton over Bessemer City, Clover over Chapman, Crest over East Gaston, East Lincoln over West Iredell, Tennessee over Alabama, Miami over Pitt, South Carolina over Notre Dame, Carson-Newman over Gardner-Webb, Penn State over Syracuse and Ohio State over Michigan State.

Another contest is inside today's Herald. Pick the most winners and return your entry by 4 p.m. Friday and you will get the next $100 check.
