Briggs Leaving College

Dr. William J. (Bill) Briggs, 13th president of Limestone College, has submitted his resignation effective June 30, according to J. Kenneth Hill, Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Briggs submitted a letter of resignation to the Executive Committee of the Board during a meeting Thursday evening. He stated that he will become the Southern Sales Manager for Fidelity and Associates of Gastonia, effective July 1.

"Dr. Briggs worked very hard for many years for the improvement of Limestone College," Hill said in a prepared statement. "We wish him well as he enters his new field of work. However, Limestone College will continue its aggressive pursuit of a quality educational program."

Formerly of Kings Mountain, Briggs, 49, has been president of the Gaffney-based school since September 12, 1979. Prior to his accepting the presidency, he worked as the Administrative Head and Director of Development at Limestone since July 1977.

Regarded as a successful fundraiser, Briggs, as Director of Development and later as president, helped secure funds totaling over $4 million, has decreased the debt by over $500,000 and has increased endowments by approximately the same figure.

Academically speaking, Dr. Briggs initiated in the Fall of 1982, an Honors Program providing gifted students a challenging course of study which encouraged genuine critical thinking and cultivated originalities and personal development. He also inaugurated, in February 1982, a Computer Science Program and was instrumental in securing a Title III grant of almost $400,000 to purchase a computer and to provide necessary support staff for the implementation of this program in the College's curriculum.

During his tenure as president, the average Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores for incoming freshmen increased 148 points.

"Serving as president of Limestone College has been one of the most rewarding experiences of my life," said Dr. Briggs. "I appreciate the dedicated and loyal support rendered to me by the Board of Trustees throughout my tenure here. However, new challenging opportunities await me in the business world."

Since Briggs has been at the helm of the College, he organized in 1979, a College Planning and Priority Council which outlined an Internal Case Statement for the Limestone College Development Program for the Decade of the Eighties and monitored strategic planning for the College.

In 1980, he organized a Partnership Committee for the evaluation of planning of a unique, nationally acclaimed, partnership between the Cherokee County Family YMCA and Limestone College. In the Spring of the following year, Dr. Briggs organized and implemented the Decade of Confidence Capital Gifts Campaign, thus raising over $2 million to implement plans for the Partnership Committee adding eight new tennis courts, two softball fields, running track, auxiliary gym, health center, and parking area to be used jointly by the Cherokee Family YMCA and Limestone College.

Additionally, Dr. Briggs supported and worked toward the expansion of the Limestone Management Program for adult learners in a three state area. He worked toward making Limestone's music program one of the finest of any private four-year college in South Carolina.

In the community, Dr. Briggs was instrumental in restoring goodwill between the College and its surrounding area.

Prior to his joining Limestone, Briggs had served as the Director of Development at Gardner-Webb College from 1975-77 and was the coordinator of Student Personnel Services and Director of Student Financial Aid at Gardner-Webb from 1971-74.

He had been Dean of Students and Associate Professor of Education at Pfeiffer College from 1966-71.

He is married to the former Joyce Jenkins and they have two children and one grandson.
