

Mayse Named To Board

Dr. Scott Mayse of Kings Mountain is a member of the 24-member Board of Advisors of Gardner Webb College.

The Kings Mountain doctor attended the recent Board of Advisors meeting in Boiling Springs which featured an address by Dr. John Johns, president of Furman University since 1976. Forty-four persons attended the board meeting.

Dr. Johns encouraged the advisors to continue to contribute their advice, expertise and financial resources to Gardner Webb. "The college needs your encouragement while waiting for a new president," Dr. Johns said. "Be realistic in what you expect."

After lunch and Dr. Johns' speech, the advisors broke into five groups and discussed different aspects of the management change.

BOB INMAN

Inman Writes Book

Charlotte television newscaster Bob Inman becomes an author this week with the publication of "A Note In Closing," a collection of the essays he has been presenting at the end of his evening newscast on WBTV, Channel 3, for the past four years.

The 96-page softcover book is available in stores throughout the WBTV viewing area.

Bob says the publication of the book is in response to viewers' demand. "Hundreds of people have written to ask for copies of particular essays," Bob says, "and many have urged me to bring out a book of the most popular ones."

"A Note In Closing," began when Bob's news director at WBTV asked him in 1981 to start writing a personal commentary to conclude the nightly 6:00 P.M. newscast. "I asked him what he wanted me to write about," Bob says, "and he said, 'It doesn't matter as long as you don't libel anybody.' So I write about whatever comes to mind - life, love, politics, nature, families, the adventures of my friend Delbert Earle and my boyhood buddy Booger Winston, world events, and assorted foolishness."

Bob is native of Elba, Alabama and began his career in journalism as a seventh grader at his hometown weekly newspaper. "Many of my essays are about growing up in a small town," he says. "You just never quite get away from your roots." After graduation from the University of Alabama in 1965, he began his television career at WSFA-TV in Montgomery and came to Charlotte's WBTV in 1970.

He returned to the University of Alabama in 1975 to work in public relations and earn a Master of Fine Arts degree in Creative Writing, then came back to WBTV News in 1979. He co-anchors the 6:00 and 11:00 evening newscasts, and his special reporting assignments have included trips to London and Buenos Aires during the 1982 Falklands conflict, and coverage of the 1984 Democratic and Republican conventions.

Bob's series, "Hometown Carolina," which profiles communities in the Carolinas, is a regular feature of WBTV News.

His experience as a newscaster helped earn him a part in the 1983 CBS-TV mini-series "Chief," which was filmed in Chester, South Carolina.

Bob is also the author of a novel, "The Cockatiel," which will be published nationwide by Little, Brown Publishing Company of Boston in September, 1986. He says it's the story of a smalltown Southern newspaper editor and his family, set at the end of World War Two.

Bob and his wife, Paulette, are the parents of two daughters: tenth-grader Larkin and third-grader Lee.
