

Broyhill Pushes Bill

WASHINGTON, DC--"I advised the President to sign the Textile and Apparel Trade Enforcement Act of 1985 promptly and send a signal to American textile, fiber and apparel workers that we are not going to sit back and watch important American industries disappear," Congressman James T. Broyhill (R-NC) stated following a White House meeting with President

Reagan last week. "All I asked the President to do was to look at the facts and to let hard-working American citizens know that we are going to stand up for American jobs in the face of unfair foreign competition."

The legislation, H.R. 1562, cleared the Congress earlier this week and arrived at the White House at 6:25 a.m. this morning. The President has 10 days to sign or veto the legislation.

"The President's top advisors are strongly recommending a veto," Congressman Broyhill continued. "We just wanted to make sure that the President was aware of the facts and the economic reality of the situation."

Broyhill was accompanied by Congressman Carroll Campbell of South Carolina, Senator Mack Mattingly of Georgia, Senator Paula Hawkins of Florida, and Senator Jeremiah Denton of Alabama.

"I remain committed to this effort," the Congressman reiterated, "and I sincerely hope that the President will see the wisdom in signing the legislation and sending a strong signal to other nations that the United States will no longer be responsible for absorbing over half of the world's textile and apparel shipments. By any measure, this is excessive and harmful to our competitive and productive American textile industry. Fair is fair."

Clevmont Celebrates Million Hours Of Safety

Three million hours accident free was reason enough to celebrate and employees of Clevmont Mills did just that last Wednesday at a big company-wide Carnival at the Kings Mountain Community Center.

Disc Sound of Charlotte provided the music for the carnival which featured drawing for fourteen $100 gift certificates and plenty of other prizes, hotdogs, and barbecue with all the trimmings.

In addition, employees took turns throwing balls and dunking their favorite supervisor in the water and there were plenty of games and entertainment in a carnival setting complete with tents set up around the gymnasium of the Community Center. Bingo and basketball and other games provided the entertainment.

Members of the Safety Committee arranging the festive afternoon were Mary Ross, Betty Hughes, Allen Guy, Gerry Cox, Ralph Hiolett, Larry David, Mike King, Leland Neal, Steve Guy, Sherwood Hardin, Howard Spence, and Cliff Shank.

Carolina Baskets Inc.

Purchases Wood Equipment

John Bullock, President of Carolina Baskets, Inc., Kings Mountain, announced today that negotiations have been completed with Kingsport Wood Working Company of Kingsport, Tennessee whereby Carolina Baskets has purchased all the wood working equipment of the Kingsport Company. Arrangements have been made to move all the manufacturing equipment to the Kings Mountain location.

Bullock said, purchasing this highly technical industrial equipment, much of it specially developed, will enable them to better compete in the competitive plant stand business and it will also enable them to expand product line.

Although Carolinas main business is to the national market all products manufactured in the Kings Mountain plant will be offered to the public at Bullock's store located downtown in Kings Mountain on West Mountain Street. Carolina Baskets Inc. is a wholly owned subsidiary of Bullock Industries Inc.
