KM's Bradley Scholarship Semifinalist

North Carolina State University has selected 200 outstanding high school seniors, including Jennifer Bradley of Kings Mountain, as semifinalists in its 1986-87 Merit Awards Program. These students were invited to the NCSU campus to participate in February scholarship interviews.

From the 220, 80 finalists will be chosen to receive scholarships for the freshman year at N.C. State.

More than 1,350 seniors from 28 states applied for merit awards, according to Patricia J. Lee, coordinator of the Merit Awards Program. The finalists will compete for universitywide awards that range from a tuition and fees scholarship for the freshman year to the prestigious John Tyler Caldwell Alumni Scholarship, which is valued at $3,000 for in-state students and $4,500 for out-of-state students and is renewable for up to four years.

Finalists also will be eligible for a number of other scholarships awarded by individual schools at N.C. State.

Recipients are chosen on the basis of their outstanding academic record, active participation in school and community activities and their potential academic success at the university.

Miss Bradley is the daughter of Joan H. Bradley of 903 Sherwood Lane and Robert L. Bradley of Kings Mountain. She is a senior at Kings Mountain Senior High School where she is a member of the Beta Club and of the National Honor Society and attended the Governors School. She plans to study engineering.
