Follow Basic Safety Tips
For Happy July Fourth

Human Resources Secretary Phillip J. Kirk, Jr. is urging all North Carolinians to be cautious and follow some basic safety tips to make their July 4th holiday healthier and more enjoyable.

"With all of the family picnics, neighborhood get-togethers, concerts and fireworks displays, July 4th is one of the most festive celebrations of the year," Kirk pointed out. "But it can turn into tragedy if people don't follow a few precautions. Last year, for example, 25 people were killed on North Carolina highways during the four-day July 4th holiday."

State Health Director Dr. Ronald H. Levine offered the following holiday safety tips:

- use your car seat belts;
- stop periodically for a rest when traveling long distances;
- don't drink and drive. The same applies to water activities such as swimming or boating;

- don't drink after taking medicine;
- don't leave bottles, glasses or cups containing alcoholic beverages sitting around when children can reach them. Alcohol can poison a child;

-attend public displays of fireworks rather than creating your own. In North Carolina, fireworks are illegal unless they are properly permitted by local county commissioners for public displays;

-be careful with gasoline when refilling a hot lawn mower and with charcoal lighter fluid when starting a grill fire. Both burn very quickly and fire can race up a stream of the liquid causing an explosion before a person can drop the container;

-keep any picnic food appropriately hot or cold to avoid the growth of possible disease-causing bacteria that might lead to food poisoning for anyone who eats it;

-never swim alone—take a buddy with you;

-supervise children carefully when they're near water;

-avoid going into deep water if you can't swim well, and don't dive into water if it is shallow or the depth is unknown;

-wear a lifejacket when boating, and follow water safety rules.

"If everyone will follow these simple safety precautions, we can all enjoy a happier, safer July 4th weekend," Levine emphasized. "In fact, they're good guidelines to follow throughout the warmer months of the year."

Happy Birthday
