

KM Teacher Participates In Seminar

Sheila P. Sisk of Shelby, a teacher at Kings Mountain High School, was one of 18 teachers selected from across the state to participate in a five-day seminar at the North Carolina Center for the Advancement of Teaching at Western Carolina University. Sisk attended a seminar held Jan. 20-24 titled, "To the Stars: Humans in the Cosmos," led by Dr. Walter Oldendorf, Center Fellow; Dr. James Trefil, professor of physics at the University of Virginia; Dr. Stephen Reynolds, assistant professor of physics, N.C. State University; Carolyn McPherson, chemistry instructor at Western Carolina University; and Dwight Moses, a math and science teacher at Sylva-Webster High School. Sisk has a bachelor's degree from Limestone College, and a master's degree from Winthrop College. The N.C. Center for the Advancement of Teaching is dedicated to the advancement of teaching as an art and a profession and is designed to provide outstanding public school teachers opportunities to study advanced topics in the sciences, arts, and humanities.

Open House To Kick Off Vocational Education Week

An open house Sunday afternoon from 2 until 4 p.m. at Kings Mountain Senior High School will kick-off the week celebration of Vocational Education Week in KM District Schools.

Using the nationwide theme, "Building America's Future", some 1,044 students in the vocational education program will show displays to the interested public and lead guided tours of the vocational department at the local high school. Vocational education is offered to students in grades 7-12 at Central School, KM Junior High and KM Senior High Schools and all 850 KMSHS students have the opportunity to par-

Open House Set

At Eye Clinic

Kings Mountain Eye Clinic Vision Lab will hold open house at 510 West King Street Sunday afternoon from 2 until 4 p.m.

Kings Mountain area citizens are invited to inspect and tour the new facility and see the newest equipment for eye care as well as a large selection of eyeglass frames and styles.

Dr. David McDaniel, owner, and Mrs. McDaniel will greet visitors and will be assisted by members of the staff in conducting the tour and serving refreshments.

Retired To Meet

Cleveland County Chapter 3488 of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will meet Wed., Feb. 11 at 11 a.m. at the Senior Center, 408 E. Marion St., Shelby. The customary social and refreshments half hour will precede the business session, starting promptly at 10:30 a.m. All members are asked to note the starting time change for this meeting and all other in 1987.

Marion Elliott, School Food Service Director for the Shelby City Schools, will present the topic "Nutrition" following the usual business session.

Carolyn McWhirter, chairman of the week's observance, said the public is invited to see the many vocational programs offered and visit with the teachers in the classrooms. She said a display highlighting the work of area successful vocational students is open to the public at Cleveland Mall all next week. Visitors attending Sunday's open house will be eligible for door prizes and will receive favors.

In addition to the open house Mrs. McWhirter said that Staff Appreciation Days are planned beginning on Tuesday, Feb. 10th with a VICA breakfast in the Library; on Wednesday, the FHA will host a drop-in during the day in the Home Economics Department; on Wednesday Pre-Vocational group will serve cookies and coffee during the day; on Thursday, Feb. 12th the Future Business Leaders will serve breakfast in Mrs. Sisk's room from 7:30 until 8 a.m. and all week there will be apples for the teachers in the teacher's lounge, compliments of the Future Farmers of America club.

Mayor John Moss signed a proclamation Monday declaring next week as Vocational Education Week in Kings Mountain and inviting local citizens to participate.

Banners across the front of the high school will be erected this week by Fred Dixon, Ed Ervin and Bum Bumgardner and other vocational leaders on committees for the event include Carolyn McWhirter and Sheila Sisk, invitations and name tags; Linda Dixon, Kathy Goforth, Dennis Martin and Wayne Thompson, vocational displays at open house Sunday and at Cleveland Mall; Bill Wellmon and Jaquitha Reid, publicity and posters; Peggy Baird and Norma Cloninger, open house and hospitality; Lillian Whitworth, favors; Sheila Sisk, guides, scheduling and registration; and Ann Bennett, Harrill Blanton, Margaret Rhodes, Glista Young, Ann Brant, Dianne Hollifield, Charles Helms and Patsy Rountree, prevocational displays.
