Sipe's Basketball Camp Slated June 15-20 At KMHS Gym

Larry Sipe's annual Champions of Tomorrow Basketball Camp will be held June 15-20 at the Kings Mountain High School gym.

The camp is open to boys and girls in grades three through eight. It will run from 8 a.m. until 12 noon each day and is limited to the first 35 campers.

Purpose of the camp is to introduce youngsters to the fundamentals of basketball and to help each person develop those fundamental skills.

Cost is $40. Twenty dollars is due with the application and the remaining $20 is due the first day of camp. Applications are available from homeroom and physical education teachers at area schools and by calling coach Sipe at KMHS (739-5401).

Each camper will receive a camp T-shirt, basketball, handbook and certificate. Trophies will be awarded to outstanding campers.

This is Coach Sipe's fourth basketball camp since coming to KMHS from Washington High School where he helped turn out two state championship ballteams which featured All Americans Alvis Rogers and Dominique Wilkins. Sipe coached last year's KMHS team to the sectional championship. He has worked at several college camps, including those of coaches Dean Smith, Lee Rose, Dave Patton and Mike Pratt.

Field Day Was Success

To the editor:

Fifth grade field day was held May 1 at Kings Mountain High School. Approximately 350 boys and girls participated in track and field events, softball games and tug of war.

Many people helped make this an exciting day for our fifth graders. We would like to thank Kyle Smith, Ronald Nanney, Hugh Holland, Sarah Mayse, Amber Tate and Sandra Clark.

To the lunchroom staffs of all elementary schools and to the physical education departments at Kings Mountain Junior High and Kings Mountain Senior High, thank you for your help and support.

Thanks to the Kings Mountain Herald for coverage of the event.
