SELLING YOUR HOUSE

RUBY ALEXANDER
 CRS

WHAT'S WRONG WITH YOUR HOUSE?
 No house is perfect. More and more, today, prospective buyers are arranging professional inspections by structural engineers before they take title. The report of the engineer on the condition of the property may determine whether the buyers will buy, and at what price. Some "faults" are normal wear and tear; others may be grounds for negotiation or cancellation.
 We inspect houses, too. When called in on a new listing, we look over the property critically, with two aims in mind. First, of course, we must estimate what the property will bring on the market. Second, and just as important, we have to know what the house needs—whether there are maintenance or appearance problems that make it less salable or reduce the price a buyer will pay.
 Most often, we can recommend the sprucing-up that will make a property more desirable. We'll point out the minor repairs and cosmetic improvements that add to a home's value. Sometimes we advise against extensive improvements that will not pay for themselves in increased market value.
 When it's time to sell, list your house with Alexander Realty 739-1616.
