

North Talent Winners Named

Kristen Feemster, Joy Dixon, Liana Owens and Mindy Reynolds won the annual North School Talent Show Tuesday and competed with 16 other talented students for trophies.

Feemster, competing in Division I with Kindergarten and First grade students, won the first place trophy with her rendition of "Move On Up The Mountain."

A duet, "Western Medley", featuring Joy Dixon and Liana Owens with David Owens at the piano, won the trophy in Division II for Second and Third graders.

In the Fourth-Fifth Grades Division, Mindy Reynolds won the trophy for her gymnastic routine, "Mama Don't Dance."

Special entertainment was presented by cloggers from North School under direction of Miss James.

Mrs. Judy Whisnant was master of ceremonies and Principal Joey Hopper presented the trophies.

Also competing in Division I were Leslie Hoyle who sang "He's Still Working On Me" with Marsha Hoyle as accompanist; Adams Hall who presented the pledge and song, "My Country 'Tis Of Thee" and Lauren Causby, Heather Causby, Meredith Ware and Miranda Owensby who sang "Take Me Out To The Ballgame."

Tonya White In New York With Wingate College Group

Tonya Rebecca White of Kings Mountain is among 100 students from Wingate College who are in Washington, D.C. and New York City this week taking part in this year's Great American Heritage.

Students studied New York and Washington during the first half of spring semester in weekly faculty-led seminars. During spring break they are traveling with faculty to these cities visiting places they have studied.

Some of the New York sights include the Empire State Building, Statue of Liberty, a walk through Central Park, a tour of the Stock Market, and in Washington the White House, the Capitol, Kennedy Center, the National Zoo and National Museum.

Great American Heritage, which is in its second year, was designed to give Wingate College sophomores a opportunity for urban experience in a major American city, made possible, in part, by the Jessie Ball duPont Religious, Charitable and Educational Fund.

Chief Warren Goforth and Capt. Bob Hayes of the Kings Mountain Police Department treated Connie Bell's fifth grade class at North School to demonstrations of handcuffs and the police car sirens.

Police Officers Helping Make City Of KM Safe

Connie Bell's fifth grade class at North Elementary School was treated to a visit from Kings Mountain Police Force members Chief Warren Goforth and Capt. Bob Hayes on Thursday, March 2. Although the visit was kept on the light side, the officers were at the school to talk with the students about a very serious subject -- drinking and driving.

As part of a program called "Making Kings Mountain, North Carolina a Safe Place to Live", Goforth and Hayes have been visiting classes throughout the local school system at the teacher's request to give kids a lesson in how drinking and driving can affect them.

Along with a slide show and question and answer session, the students were allowed to see first-hand the inside of a police car and find out how uncomfortable a pair of handcuffs can be.

The hope of teachers and local police is that if informed about the dangers of drinking and driving early enough, perhaps it will serve to deter future problems with drug abuse.

KM Students On Wingate List

Five Kings Mountain area students are listed on the president's list for the fall 1988 semester at Wingate College.

The list includes those students, who while taking at least 12 hours of academic work, made at least a 3.8 on a 4.0 scale and made no grade below C.

Area students on the list were Jo Anna Boheler of Grover and April Annette Hoyle, Paul Mauney Neisler IV, Adrian Lin Bell and Tonya Rebecca White, all of Kings Mountain.

Three Kings Mountain area students on the dean's list at Wingate for the recent semester were Mark Andrew Davis of Kings Mountain and Lisa Jane White and Mary Beth Stevenson, both of Grover.
