Election

Kings Mountain challenger has run unsuccessfully for several terms.

A Republican Senate Primary is also assured in May with the filing of John Carter, Mary Lou Craig, John Hodge Sr., James Forrester and David Ward for three seats open. The 25th Senatorial District includes Cleveland, Gaston, Lincoln and Rutherford Counties.

In the 10th District Republican Congressional race where incumbent Congressman Cass Ballenger was unchallenged almost until the filing deadline Monday, Cherie Killian Berry, 43, of Newton, a newcomer to politics, will challenge Ballenger and Rita McElwaine and Daniel Green Jr. will be on the Democratic ballot. Green, a Hickory lawyer, says he wants to provide new leadership in Washington for the citizens of the 10th District. McElwaine is a day care owner from Mount Holly.

Nine Democrats and two Republicans are now seeking two seats up for grabs on the Cleveland County Board of Commissioners assuring a Primary for Democrats in May. Running to unseat Democrats Joyce Falls Cashion and Coleman Goforth are Ralph Gilbert, Samuel Gold, Truman Davis, Rev. R. E. Devoe, Richard Kelly, Gale Kirk, Melvin Morris, all on the Democratic ticket. Republicans John William Claytor Jr. and Dennis Bingham will challenge the Democratic winners in November.

Contest for three seats in 48th District House, which includes Cleveland, Polk and Rutherford Counties, will be between the Democratic incumbents Rep. Jack Hunt and Rep. Edith Lutz who are being challenged by William Harrill Withrow Sr., Rick Gilbert, and Jack Metcalf. The Republican Primary will find incumbent Rep. John Weatherly facing a challenge from Bill Weaver, Tony Helton and Dick Hoagland.

"As a native of Cleveland County, I feel a responsibility to make a contribution to our county government. I would like to help guide Cleveland County into the future," said Dr. John William (Bill) Claytor Jr., 35, Shelby dentist in a prepared statement when he filed for the Cleveland County Board of Commissioners.

Kings Mountain lawyer Scott Cloninger and James W. Morgan, Democrats, seek the new district court judgeship seat in Judicial District 27-B, which includes Lincoln and Cleveland Counties and the winner of that race will face the Republican candidate Gregory Calvin Smith, Lincolnton attorney, in November.

Smith, 36, said he has family ties to both counties. "I have carefully considered my decision to run for judge. Attorneys, elected officials, leaders in my church and friends from both parties encouraged me to run. My wife has given me her full support and was at my side when I filed Monday morning," he said. "The final decision to run was mine. I am not running against an incumbent. I am running for a new judgeship. If elected, I will do my best to serve the people of Cleveland and Lincoln Counties as a fair and impartial judge."

Gale Kirk of Earl also filed for Cleveland County commissioner this week.

Kirk, 40, a Democrat, says she supports new business for the county and generating improving the quality of life.

no registration fee for the class and no obligation to become a volunteer for Hospice. Class sessions will be taped so that those missing a session may make it up by listening to the tape.

The patient count for Hospice has stayed around 30 for some time now.

During the past two years the patient load has increased about 41%. Generally each Hospice patient is assigned one volunteer nurse and two lay volunteers in addition to the staff of Hospice who work with each patient and their family. With the increased patient load there is a great need for additional volunteers in all areas of the county. Approximately one-fourth of the patients served by Hospice come from the Kings Mountain area and there is a critical need for volunteers from that section of the county.

Through the cooperative efforts of literally hundreds of people the Hospice food sale held in November raised $8,157.12 for the support of Hospice services. There is, of course, no charge made to Hospice patients and their families for Hospice services.

"The staff of Hospice, the board of directors, the patients and their families deeply appreciate the fine efforts by so many to make the Hospice food sale such a success," said Director Evelyn West.

Persons interested in volunteer training classes may call the Hospice office at 487-4677 to pre-register and for more information, or may simply attend the first session of the class.
