

New Wash Rack To Be Built

A new 40x60 foot building to house a "wash rack" for big over-the-road trucks and a maintenance shop to service the trucks and clean them up for Department of Transportation state inspection is being built by Rapid Distribution at 304 Linwood Road.

The metal shell for the commercial building is being constructed at cost of $48,000 and Hoover Builders of Gastonia is contractor, according to the city building permit the company purchased from the City of Kings Mountain.

Final inspection of the building is expected in about 10 days.

KM CLASS OF 2003-These Kindergarten students at Bethware School represent the Class of 2003 and were photographed on the first day of the 1990-91 school term Monday receiving t-shirts from First Carolina Federal Savings Bank executive Gary Whitaker. The green on white shirts go to all Kindergarten students in the five elementary schools and have the S&L logo and are imprinted with "Class of 2003." Students, pictured with Whitaker, kneeling, are Sara Lynn, Amy Robinson, Jonathan Wheeler, Brandon Bridges and Van Keith Jones, right. Standing, from left, Katie Lemmons, Cassie Bell, Shaunca Starkes, Holly Evans and Ashley Fowler.

Gas Still Going Up

Gas prices continued spiraling upward in the Kings Mountain area this week.

The price of unleaded regular self-service gas at most stations went from $1.19 to $1.25 per gallon. Parker's Amoco on King Street had not raised the price at the pumps on Wednesday and was pumping gas at $1.19 per gallon. Stations outside the city limits were advertising gas at $1.29 for a gallon of unleaded gasoline.

The AAA Carolina Motor Club said the increases brought the average cost for a gallon of self-serve regular unleaded to $.203 in the North Carolina and $1.159 per gallon in South Carolina. Across the nation, prices increased by 2.1 cents per gallon to average $1.237 per gallon.

Since the Kuwait invasion, the price run-up has amounted to 11.9 cents per gallon in North Carolina and 13.7 cents per gallon in South Carolina. The average U.S. price increase since the invasion has been 16.2 cents per gallon.

Enjoy your pool without the bother of chlorine. Pour pleasure into your pool with

BAQUACIL

Low maintenance, chlorine-free sanitizer/algistat that works in your water for weeks. Dosage of BAQUACIL is usually required about every two weeks. In many cases only every 3-4 weeks. BAQUACIL is unaffected by sunlight and high temperatures. It is more stable than chlorine, so it lasts much longer. You won't get burning eyes, unpleasant odor, or bleached hair and swimwear. You will get clear, sparkling water with a pleasant, "soft" feel... and more time to enjoy it.
