Felts Has Own Style

Don't follow the style, set it. But, you say, "I'd rather be dead than out of style." When you really think about it, you've got a cat telling you what to wear and when. Now, if you don't have enough to put on a coat when it's cold or shorts when it's hot, I reckon that's okay.

Sure, it takes guts to say, "The heck with the style this year, I'm going to wear what I like." However, it's the folks with originality that really get ahead. Most any bozo can follow the crowd. I'll warn you, being a free thinker will get you a lot of flack, and snickers behind your back. So what, these people don't pay your bills. Their egos are so big that they can't believe that you disagree with them.

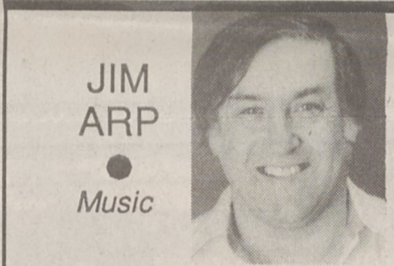

Those of us who remember the early days of Elvis know what a drubbing he took from everything from the media to the man on the street. They couldn't even get his style of music right. Some said he was singing nothing but "race" music or R&B. That's a misconception. He borrowed from R&B, also from country and country blues. He laced them all together, adding some phrasing like gospel singer Jake Hess, and came up with his own style. It was his music. He didn't just follow the leader.

putting his personality in an honest delivery. Felts has had a string of hits in both country and rock as long as a bad woman's dreams. Not only is Felts talented, he's an extremely nice person and that's the most important thing.

As you know there are thousands of people who are innovators. I don't have time and space to list all their names in this column. Time's a-wasting. I have to get back to m study, and try to learn to write like Mark Twain.

ies (where Elvis got his start) in the 50s. I don't think he borrowed anything from anyone. He does his songs the way he feels them,

A 30-minute video designed to help you recognize heart attack symptoms.

Every year, more than one million Americans have heart attacks... one third of these men and women die as a result.

But it doesn't have to be that way. More people would survive heart attacks if they knew how to recognize the warning signs or had called for help sooner.

The Carolinas Heart Emergency Network is pleased to offer "How To Beat Heart Attacks"- a 30-minute health information video that teaches individuals how to recognize the symptoms of a heart attack.

The video also provides the viewer with an important quiz to help evaluate his or her risk of having a heart attack. And most importantly, the video shows how many people have begun to win the battle against heart disease.

To receive a copy of this important video, and a copy of the quiz, please contact the network hospital in your area.
