

Blazer Band To Perform In Winston-Salem

The Kings Mountain High School Blazer Band, under the direction of Christopher H. Cole, will perform at the NCMEA/MENC Southern Division In Service Conference to be held in Winston-Salem Mon., Nov. 12 at 9 a.m. in the Hyatt Regency Ballroom.

The band will be performing for elementary, high school and college band directors from North Carolina, as well as directors from throughout the Southeast.

The band will be performing Power and Glory March by Sousa.

Symphonic Dance No. 3 "Fiesta" by Clifton Williams, Saxophone Royale by David Bennett featuring R. Mark Black from Clover, S.C. on alto saxophone, and On a Hymn Song of Phillip Bliss by David R. Holsinger.

On Tuesday evening, November

6, the band will hold an open rehearsal from 6:30-7:00, followed by an informal performance of the convention selections. All parents and members of the community are invited to attend the concert in B.N. Barnes Auditorium.

First Report Cards Due Today

(By Sidney Bridges, Joey Bouchard and Hart Wells).

Now that the first nine weeks are over, it is time for report cards to go home today. This may mean rewards for some and trouble for others. Report cards help notify the parents of their children's strengths and weaknesses and in what areas students might need improvement.

"Report cards also help the parents and teachers work together to help the students with what they don't understand. The child's report card shows some of the scores that were a result of tests and daily work which the student might not have brought home," co-principal Jerry Hoyle said.

At the middle school this year there is a new math program created by John Saxon which is being taught by Dave Green in the eighth grade and Richard Rupp in the sixth grade. The program is supposed to bring up test scores which will help students make better grades on their report cards and the C.A.T. So far, this program has helped bring the students' grades up gradually over a period of time.

If parents have any questions about the report cards, they can call the middle school office at the new number, 734-5667, to set up an appointment with any or all of their child's teachers.
