Mill fire sends two to hospital

An early morning fire Monday sent two Patrick Yarn mill employees to the hospital and kept firemen battling the hot spots for five hours after the fire call at 12:45 until about 6 a.m., Chief Frank Burns said.

Michael Stroupe and Wayne Collins had worked to put the fire out before firemen arrived and Stroupe was showing firefighters where the fire was when he ran out of air in his air pack, said Burns. Firemen pulled the unconscious Stroupe from the building and took him to Kings Mountain Hospital where he, along with Collins, were treated for smoke inhalation. "Stroupe was extremely lucky," said Burns.

The fire started in the middle of the warehouse of Patrick Yarn Mills Inc., 523 S. Battleground Avenue, where 50 bales of rayon were stored. Damage to the plant and contents were estimated at $22,000.

Burns said 35 firemen from Kings Mountain and Bethlehem Volunteer Departments were on the scene as well as the American Red Cross. Because of the rescue efforts, he said it took about 1 1/2 hours to get the fire under control. "When we arrived on the scene we saw heavy smoke and were told that someone was inside the building. A couple of the firemen met Stroupe in real heavy smoke and while enroute to the fire scene in the warehouse Stroupe blacked out," said Burns.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Also on Monday firemen put out a grease fire on a kitchen stove at the home of David and Lucy Lockridge at 911 Piedmont Avenue. Kitchen cabinets were demolished and the house was smoke damaged $3,000.

'Pride' committee to meet Saturday

The Pride in Kings Mountain Committee will meet Saturday morning at 8 a.m. for dutch breakfast at McDonald's and then begin planting of a small park area at the western entrance of the city across from The Armory.

Members of the Kings Mountain Board of Realtors want to sow seed in six flower beds and can use donations for red, pink and white flowers as well as monkey grass, perennials and azaleas and help from interested citizens who want to dig in the dirt and help beautify the area. Realtors took on the project after getting approval from the city to beautify the area as that group's community project and make the area pretty and pleasant for people to see as they come into town. City crews broke ground last week.

Ann Moss is chairman of the committee, which also includes Sandra Wilson, Charlene Ellis and Pat Childers.

Ellis said that several firms have committed to planting a flower bed and others are donating time to do the work. "This isn't a Board of Realty park but a park for all citizens and for all motorists to enjoy as they drive in this area," she said. Flowers will also be planted around the monument and sign already in place.

Moss suggests that garden clubs and other organizations may want to get in the beautification spirit and city and adopt a sign or entrance.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, three children and father, are one sister, Mrs. Kathleen Powers of Harlem, Ga.; one brother, Jerry K. Gieseking of Harlem, Ga. and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Emma Currie of Blue Earth, Minnesota.

The funeral was conducted April 17, 1991 at 3 p.m. at Antioch Baptist Church. Rev. Vernon Craig officiated.

Pallbearers were Nick Yasui, Jack Hughes, Eric Jensen, Paul Clark, William Powers and Greg Logan.

Memorials may be made to National Wildlife Federation.

other people to read."

Albert Logan and his daughter, Grace Logan, were the first neighbors on the scene summoned by Mr. Jensen. Ms. Logan took the three children to her house and comforted them until relatives and Social Services officials arrived on the scene.

"It's a nightmare," said Ms. Logan, who said her family liked the couple and were good friends with the children. Other neighbors recalled that Mrs. Jensen often went bike riding with the children and that she traveled on occasion installing pipe for the pipeline. Mr. Jensen was disabled.

A native of Augusta, Ga., she was daughter of Fritz H. Gieseking of Harlem, Ga. and the late Marilyn Chafee Weathersbee.

When You Find Yourself Saying "TURN IT DOWN"... Call Beltone!

How many times have you walked into the home of a relative or close friend and said, "Could you please turn the television (or radio) down?"

Probably more times than you care to remember. Well next time skip the speech and reach for help. Reach for the telephone. Call Beltone and make an appointment for someone you care about. Playing the television or radio loud usually indicates a hearing problem. And most hearing problems can be helped.
