Ames, Louise Bates and Carol Chase Haber. YOUR EIGHT YEAR OLD: LIVELY AND OUTGOING (Delacorte Press, 1989).

The eight year old child is an exuberant, outgoing bundle of energy. In many ways, this is a sunnier, happier little person than at seven. Eight is also a time when a child begins to do a great deal of thinking and analyzing. In the successful tradition of the Gesell Institute Series, this is a well researched, highly accessible guide to the characteristics, moods, thoughts, and development of the eight year old.

ANCIENT GREEK LITERATURE (Oxford University Press, 1990).

Four classical scholars have collaborated in writing this new historical survey of Greek literature from 700 BC to 550 A. The book concentrates on the principal authors and quotes many passages from their work in translation, to allow the reader to form his own impression of its quality.

Anthony, Piers. BIO OF AN OGRE

(Ace Books, 1988).

Award winning author Piers Anthony has been delighting fans and critics since 1963, with the publication of his first short story. Today he is widely recognized as one of the most imaginative writers of our time. This is his story - a rich, compelling journey into the very private mind of a brilliant storyteller.

Brown, Bruce and Lane Morgan. THE MIRACLE PLANET (Gallery Books, 1990).

This is a portrait of the earth drawn by some of the major scientists of our time. Based on a television series, the book examines the processes that have shaped our planet into a home for life and the forces that cloud its future. The outstanding photography takes one to every corner of the globe and demonstrates the processes of change and development below the surface of the earth.

Bushong, William. NORTH CAROLINA'S EXECUTIVE MANSION;

Rose Turner
Librarian

THE FIRST HUNDRED YEARS (Executive Mansion Fine Arts Committee and the Executive Mansion Fund Incorporated, 1991).

This centennial history of North Carolina's executive mansion chronicles the survival of a magnificent example of Queen Anne cottage style Victorian architecture. From the first struggles to acquire funds for its initial construction, to recommendations to replace it, the mansion has become a source of pride to the people in the sate. Entered in the National Register of Historic Places in 1970, the mansion is one of the nation's oldest buildings specifically built and continuously used as the home for governors.

Grant, R.G. THE 1960's (Mallard Press, 1990).

Few decades elicit quite as much nostalgia as the 1960's. It was a decade of startling contrasts and an era of change. The rosy view of the 60's as a period of liberation, youth culture and psychedelic fun is widespread, but at the same time, a new violent streak entered the political arena, leaving behind it a bloody trail of bodies. Conflict seemed to be the keynote of the decade, whether it was between teenagers and their parents, or more seriously, between the superpowers.

Horsley, Edith. THE 1950's (Mallard Press, 1990).

The 1950's were the years that gave us the Twist, spy scandals, the Korean War and Dacron. It was the decade of Elvis, James Dean and Marilyn Monroe. Man pushed himself to the limits of endurance, conquering Everest, breaking the barrier of the four minute mile, and venturing into space. It was the era of the Cold War, McCarthyism, Suez, the Coronation. Lavishly illustrated with over 300 evocative pictures, this history captures the feeling of the exciting period in an authoritative and lively text which deals with each year separately, covering every aspect of life.

Kaye, M.M. THE SUN IN THE MORNING; MY EARLY YEARS IN INDIA AND ENGLAND (St. Martin's Press, 1990).

Her novels of India have made M.M. Kaye one of the world's most popular storytellers today. Her special subject has always been the India of the Raj, its romance, its mystery, its potent mix of cultures and peoples living in a time soon to be swept away forever. Now Mrs. Kaye recaptures her youth in India.

Neely, Mark E., Jr. THE FATE OF LIBERTY; ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND CIVIL LIBERTIES (Oxford University Press, 1991).

If Abraham Lincoln was known as the Great Emancipator, he was also the only president to suspend the writ of habeas corpus. Indeed, Lincoln's record on the Constitution and individual rights has fueled a century of debate, from charges that Democrats were singled out of harassment to depiction of Lincoln as absolute dictator. In this book, one of America's leading authorities on Lincoln wades straight into the controversy, showing just who was jailed and why, even as he explores the whole range of Lincoln's Constitutional policies.

Noonan, Peggy. WHAT I SAW AT THE REVOLUTION; A POLITICAL LIFE IN THE REAGAN ERA (Random House, 1990).

Peggy Noonan was a special assistant to President Reagan. See Library, 11-B

Some more firsts in country music

We always get good results from trivia.

I got a brainstorm and came up with a couple that haven't been printed. I would say the first male singer was Adam. The first female signer was Eve. Now, I'm gonna show you how quick in the head I am.

The first duet was Adam and Eve. Just thing, they were doing all original material. They had it made, didn't have to learn other people's songs.

Look at the money they saved on costumes. Adam didn't know much about cheating songs. When Eve asked him "do you really love me?" Adam could replay, "Who Else?"

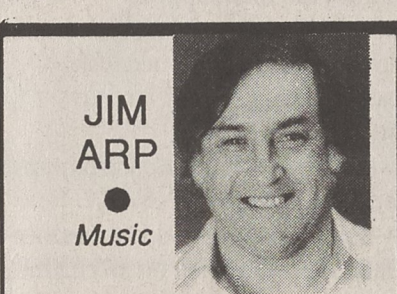

I got to rooting through some notes and came up with some other useless news or information.

Old Tom Edison was the first to get a machine to play back as sound recording. This was back in 1877. The song was "Mary Had a Little Lamb." Thomas also developed the first 12-inch disk LP. That sucker was a half inch thick and weighed two pounds. You had to drop a diamond stylus on it to get it to play. This was in 1926.

It doesn't seem like we've had eight-track records nearly 40 years. Les Paul built the first eight-track machine in 1954.

I'm sure you remember all the echo used on those Sun records that Sam Phillips put out on Elvis and the other Sun artists. That wasn't a first for echo. Back in 1950, Junior Mance pulled a boom mike into a bathroom. He used the room for an echo chamber. The song was "Foolish Heart."

I know you've been sitting

JIM ARP
Music

around wondering what was the first record to make the Country &

Western, R&B, and Pop chart all at once. Then you just remembered it was Elvis with "Heartbreak Hotel" back in 1956. By the time "Heartbreak Hotel" came out Elvis was already with RCA Records.

I'm told that the first record called Rock & Roll was done by The Boswell Sisters over 50 years ago in 1936.

That wraps up this valuable information. But you ain't safe yet. There may be more in the future.
