KMLT to present M*A*S*H

The text for M*A*S*H is simple but the costumes and the atmospheric lighting is elaborate in the setting of the 407th Mobile Army Surgical Hospital for KMLT's production this weekend.

Doctor's tents, nurse's tents, mess halls and soldiers everywhere in olive drab fatigues resemble the sets for the popular movie by the same name. In the background is the menacing sound of artillery fire.

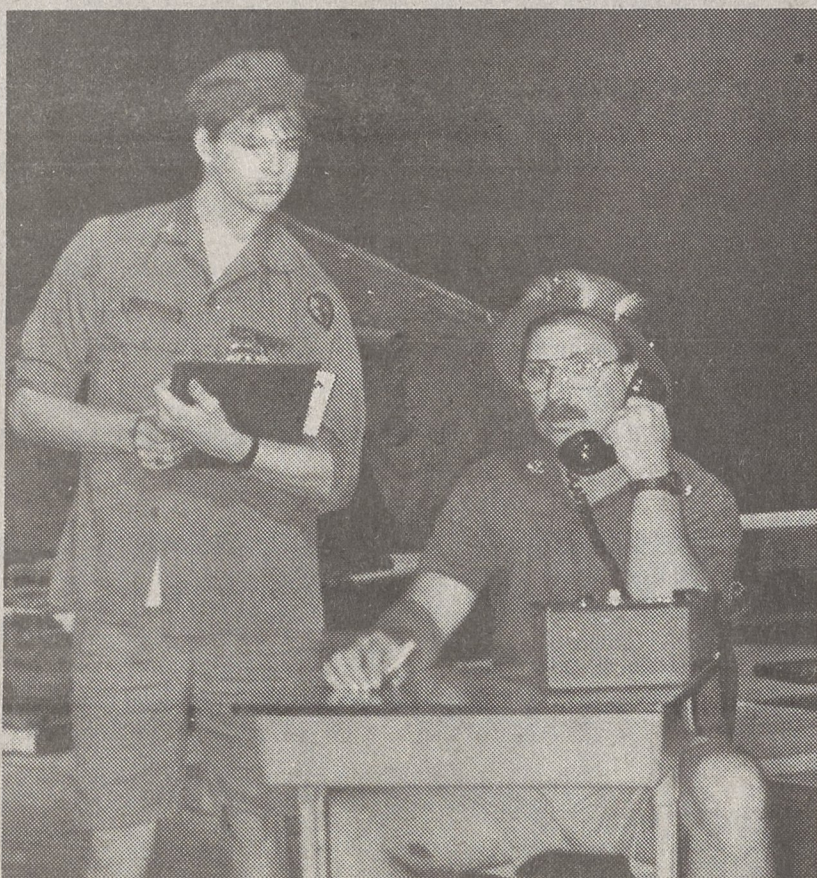

The comedy in two acts with a cast of 30 people will open Friday night at 8:30 p.m. in B. N. Barnes Auditorium. The closing show will be on Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. All tickets will be sold at the door for $4 each and all proceeds will be applied to the KMLT building fund.

Chuck Wilson is directing his first production and fundraiser since he became active in Little Theatre several years ago. The play is written by Tim Kelly from the book by Richard Hooker and produced by arrangement with The Dramatic Publishing Company.

Robin Spear has the role of the popular Maj. Margaret Hoylihan, commonly known as Hot Lips. Chuck Bridges is the personable Hawkeye, Captain Benjamin Pierce.

Veteran director and L-T player Jim Champion portrays Father Mulcahy. Little Theatre President Jeff Grigg plays Major Frank Burns.

Other members of the cast are Rev. Harwood Smith as General Hammond, Forrest Connor as Pvt. Boone, David Jones as Col. Henry Blake, Teresa Lyman as Captain Bridget McCarthy, Heather Caveny as Lt. Janice Fury, Mike Wray as Sgt. Devine, Stacey Grooms as Lt.
