

Bob says thank you, turkeys

It's appropriate that the pickin and grinnin football contest ends the weekend before Thanksgiving. Bullet Bob Hayes has made turkeys of the editor and publisher.

Bullet Bob went 10-5 again last week to open a seven-game lead with just one week remaining. It will take several hello Marys for Stewart or Austin to overtake him.

For the year, the Top Cop has a 91-44 record to Stewart's 84-51 mark. Stewart went a dismal 7-8 last week as all but one of his upset specials failed.

Austin went 8-7 to bring his season's mark to 81-54 and just three games out of second place.

Last week's guest, KMPD Dare officer Alan Hardin, matched Hayes' 10-5 record to give the guests a season's mark of 77-58.

With Hayes in ball control, you can count this contest over.

No wonder he has that big smile on his face!

Be good holiday host

If you're hosting a holiday party, be forewarned. The new interpretation of North Carolina's law may leave you holding the bag for damages caused by a drunk driver.

In September, the N. C. Supreme Court decided that a social host could be liable for damages caused by a drunk driver. If a host serves a guest alcohol knowing that person is intoxicated and may be driving, then the host may be sued for damages.

Experts say it is best to serve no alcoholic beverages but recommend that hosts do the following if they serve alcohol at their holiday parties.

Have non-alcoholic or low alcohol content beverages as alternatives.

Serve plenty of food. Don't serve alcoholic beverages to someone who is obviously intoxicated.

Collect guests' car keys and keep them all in a central location. Return the keys as guests leave and only if the person driving is not intoxicated.

Call a cab or designate a non-drinking driver from the party to take intoxicated drivers home.

"The best way to prevent an accident is to follow some common sense guidelines," says Thomas Huels, regional claims manager for State Farm Insurance. "Now that a host can be held liable for damages caused by someone who attended his party, we hope that more responsible hosts will help curb drinking and driving."

Smoke alarms free for elderly

The Kings Mountain Fire Department, in conjunction with the Kings Mountain Board of Realtors, is sponsoring Project SAFE (Smoke Alarms for Elderly).

Senior citizens who wish to have a smoke detector installed in their homes can obtain an application form at the Kings Mountain Fire Department or the Kings Mountain Depot Center. These life saving devices will be installed free of charge as long as the supply lasts.

Poor Man's Supper at Washington School

Washington Community School Project 2000 will sponsor a Poor Man's Supper and craft sale Saturday from noon until 6 p.m. The menu will include pinto beans, slaw, creamed potatoes, cornbread, onions and beverage. Plates are $2.50 for adults and $2 for children. The door prizes will include a $500 gift certificate to be awarded at 6 p.m.

Proceeds are earmarked to provide adequate housing for families in the area. The project is a joint effort between local churches, agencies, Washington School and civic organizations.

Contributions are invited from the public. Checks should be made payable to WS-CP 2000 and mailed to Washington School, 1907 Stoney Point Rd., Shelby, 28150.

during his volunteer service on the recreation committee several years ago and was also active in church leagues, overseeing the umpires.

"We can't afford to have someone at the gym all the time just for one person to come by and shoot a basketball," said Guyton. "I'm not against the people who work there, I'm against the job and I'm going public with my opinion because I want people who voted for me to know it."
