Memorial plaque honors Jack Kiser

Local contractor Jack Kiser came out of retirement two years ago to build the new gymnasium, Sunday School annex and kitchen at Foursquare Gospel Church.

Recently, the congregation honored him with a memorial service and paid tribute to the man for his generous contributions to the church.

Kiser built the new sanctuary in 1982, the elevated baptistry and dressing rooms in 1987, and the large glassed vestibule in 1987. He died this year.

Rev. Oscar Stalcup, pastor, led the service, which included presentation of a 20x32 plaque to Kiser's family. The plaque featured a level, hammer and saw and a picture of Kiser with an appropriate inscription.

Making the presentation were members of the church council Carveth Wells, Robert Eng, Berry

Bostic, Scott Crawford, Robert Jones, Jack Forbes, and Jerry Facemyer.

Kiser was the church's building contractor for 10 years.

The plaque has been hung in the church vestibule.

Members of the Kiser family were honored at a dinner after the service at Holiday Inn. Mrs. Kiser said the family plans to plant a dogwood tree at the church in memory of her husband.

Foursquare Church has completed $600,000 worth of improvements in recent years and Stalcup said the faith of the congregation and the dedication of such people as Kiser made it possible.

A building contractor in the Bessemer City/Tryon area all his life, Kiser supervised much of the construction work at Lithium Corporation in Bessemer City.

Rev. and Mrs. Oscar Stalcup hold the memorial plaque presented by Foursquare Gospel Church to the family of building contractor Jack Kiser. The plaque hangs in the vestibule that Kiser built.
