Seven seek scholarship

Seven Cleveland County seniors are in the running for a PPG Shelby Plant scholarship valued at $1,500 per year regardless of the student's financial need.

The area seniors recommended from National Merit Scholarship Qualifying test scores are Hunter Corn, Adam Marshall and David McSwain of Crest High School; Melanie Dixon and Becky Senter of Kings Mountain High School; and John Elliott and Rick Jackson of Shelby High School.

A luncheon honoring the students will be held March 9 at North Lake Country Club in Shelby and will be attended by the students' parents, the interview committee, school administrators and PPG officials.

Jerry Emmert, Foundation Agent and Manufacturing Manager of PPG's Shelby Plant, said all students residing in Cleveland County and the children of Shelby Plant employees are eligible to participate in the community scholarship program each year. He said the 1993 scholarship winner will be announced in the spring.

Emmert said factors such as scholastic records principal's endorsements, motivation, leadership qualities and personality characteristics will be considered during the selection process. He said that the interview committee would include Kay Leager, Associate Director of Admission at N. C. State University; Suzanne Wasiolek, Dean for Student Life, Duke University; Dr. Joseph Lowman, Associate Professor of Psychology at UNC at Chapel Hill.

Heather Caveny on Dean's List

Heather Ruth Caveny of 401 Horseshoe Lane, Kings Mountain, made the Dean's List for the fall semester at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

To qualify for the list, students taking 12-14 hours must earn a GPA of 3.5 or better with no grade less than a B; and students taking 15 or more hours must earn a GPA of 3.2 or better with no grade less than a B.
