by "Gateway," a contemporary Christian band. Testimonies will be shared by youth from local churches.

The rally is free and open to the public.

Fishing, hunting show in Charlotte

More than 10,000 fishermen, boaters, and hunters are expected to attend the Carolina Fishin' and Huntin' Show and Boat Sale's seventh year at the Charlotte Merchandise Mart January 13-16.

Ten different boat dealers will be selling and displaying both pleasure and fishing boats and motors at sale prices for freshwater and saltwater boating, including pontoons, runabouts, fish'n ski, cruisers up to 30 feet long, bass boats, center consoles, and offshore boats, plus personal watercraft and flat bottom square stern aluminum boats for the budget boater.

The educational seminars on how and where to fish and hunt are held hourly during the show and are included in the $5 price of admission for adults. Admission for senior citizens is $4, children six to 12 is $2, and under six is free. Readers taking a copy of this article clipped from the paper will receive one dollar off on the price of one ticket for one person.

Fishermen who can't wait for better weather this spring can catch their supper right on the show floor in a 56 foot long mountain trout fishing tank holding 750 North Carolina rainbow trout from 10 inches in length up to three and a half pounds in size. No license is needed, and tackle and bait are included in the $2 price of fishing seven frantic minutes. A second 60 foot tank in the middle of the show floor allows anglers to try out casting rods and reels and new lures before they buy.

Show hours are 4-9 p.m. Thursday, 11 a.m.-9 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Sunday. For more information, including directions and discount motel rooms nearby, call 1-800-346-2671 or (704) 333-7709 in Charlotte or (704) 358-0696 during the show.
