

Traffic on I-85 returned to normal Tuesday morning, but the shoulders and median still showed a trace of Monday's ice storm. I-85 travelers on Monday afternoon were moving at tortoise speed, if at all.

Spectrum promotes Doyle Black

Spectrum Textured Fibers Inc. has promoted a veteran employee to Maintenance Superintendent.

Doyle Black, who joined Spectrum on October 30, 1974 as a crew leader, heads a staff of 17 people who are responsible for the upkeep of the building and all the machinery in the big Kings Mountain plant.

Black, a Kings Mountain native, says his work is a real challenge but that he has a good employer and good people working with him.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Black of Kings Mountain, he graduated from Kings Mountain High School in 1962 after attending Dixon Elementary and Grover School. A Vietnam veteran, he served in the U.S. Army three years and came to Spectrum from Monsanto in Blacksburg, SC, where he was a yarn coordinator for over five years.

Black cut his teeth on industry as a young man working after school at the old Margrace Mill inspecting cloth. After his duty with Uncle Sam, he started a career as an electrician and that training came in handy with jobs in industry. Black is married to the former Rosalind Biggerstaff, who works with Copeland. He has two sisters, Bonnie Black Guin who works at Spectrum and Nadine Case, who is manager of Wendy's in Gastonia.

Black and his wife have one daughter, Teresa Philbeck, and one granddaughter, Kami Williams. The family is active in Chestnut Ridge Baptist Church.

When he isn't working Black enjoys fishing and hunting and working in the yard and garden at his home on Wooding Place in the Oak Grove Community.
