

JCN Profiles set on cable 3

JCN Profiles, a 13-part series featuring in-depth interviews with leaders of technological innovation, premiered on Jones Intercable channel 3 February 5. The programs will air Saturdays at 9 p.m. and will be repeated the following Sunday at 10:30 p.m.

Each 30-minute program will include a personal interview with one innovator and video of his respective technology in action. Scheduled guests for the remainder of February include:

February 12 - Ray Smith, Chairman and CEO of Bell Atlantic.

February 19 - Glenn R. Jones, Chairman and CEO of Jones International Ltd.

February 26 - Jim Cannavino, new head of Global Strategies for IBM.

JCN Profiles will be carried by Jones Intercable via Jones Computer Network, a prime time programming block on Mind Extension University: The Education Network. Nine other episodes are planned, with guests to be announced later.

The host for JCN Profiles is Marc Doyle, president of Doyle & Associates, a program development and production company based in Atlanta. Doyle authored The Future of Television, is an expert in interactive television, and has received numerous honors and awards for his work including three Emmys and the George Foster Peabody Award - the highest tribute in the broadcasting industry.

Locally Jones Intercable serves 20,000 subscribers in Gaston, Cleveland and York counties.

Classical Music Awards on cable 3

Jones Intercable will carry the exclusive U.S. debut of The Classical Music Awards on cable channel 3 via Mind Extension University: The Education Network. A special 60-minute version of the ceremony edited by internationally-renowned producer Bernard Hellthaler will air on Sunday, Feb. 13 at 7 p.m. There will be an encore presentation on Monday, Feb. 14 at 6 p.m. The annual gala, sponsored by Kenwood and co-produced by Bob Gelders, was originally held at the Royal Albert hall in London on January 21.

American winners of this year's awards include the New York Philharmonic, Orchestra of the Year; and Kronos Quartet of Los Angeles, Chamber Group of the Year, among many prestigious international winners.

Awareness Seminar attracts small crowd

A Community Awareness Seminar for local business leaders at the Senior Center attracted a sparse crowd Monday but Director Monty Thornburg says that the Center invites participation by all senior adults from the area.

Thornburg presented a short video and distributed pamphlets explaining the services provided for senior adults. Light refreshments were served by volunteers from the Center.

Thornburg pointed out that according to the 1990 Census that 3,300 senior adults 60 and older live in the Kings Mountain area. Of this number, 1,014 are active in various programs at the Center.

He said that in order for clients to be eligible for Senior Center services they must be at least 60 years old.

The City of Kings Mountain contributes 70 percent of the funds to support the activities.

In 1991, the older adult population 65 years and older in the nation was 12.5 percent or 31.8 million.

Included in the local services is a nutrition site where meals are provided daily for seniors by the Cleveland County Department of Social Services. Home delivered meals are also available.

Seniors enjoy daily transportation to activities at the Senior Center and the nutrition site program through a special arrangement with Transportation Administration of Cleveland County.

The annual Health Fair, fitness and health promotions, weight/blood pressure clinics, senior games, legal services, Senior Health Insurance Information, special workshops and fun programs are included.

Senior adults may receive a Tar Heel card for free discounts and a Golden Mountaineer card which entitled them to free admission to all events at Kings Mountain High School.

Lake Commission wants to stay as is

Moss Lake Commission unanimously voted Monday night to recommend to City Council that the composition of the Moss Lake Commission remain as is.

Unless the City Council overrules the Commission, the action means that no resident of Moss Lake will sit on the Commission as it was suggested by a Moss Lake resident at a recent meeting.

Councilman Dean Spears suggested at the January City Council meeting that the board consider an amendment to the Moss Lake ordinance to include a resident of Moss Lake with business ties to Kings Mountain for membership on the Commission.

City Council delayed appointment on the Lake Commission's recommendation for the vacant position.

Evelyn Hamrick's motion to recommend to City Council again that their nominee be approved died for a lack of a second, members saying they would leave an appointment to the discretion of City Council.

Rest Area water line update planned

The process of advertising for bids for the Rest Stop/Welcoming Center water lines project will begin at Monday's meeting of the city utilities committee at 5:30 p.m. at City Hall.

Director of Community Services Tom Howard will present an update on the project which will run water lines to about 35 homes on Dixon School Road.

Howard said that other business of the committee will include the election of a chairman, a discussion of wastewater sludge disposition and a presentation by W.K. Dickson Company engineers on proposals to repair city lake dams.

The board will be asked to give approval to City of Kings Mountain engineering standards and a Cleveland County Sanitation district resolution. A review of the electric system fund will also be included in the presentations.

New members of the board will take office succeeding the three who went off the board with municipal elections. They are Dean Spears, Phil Hager and Jim Guyton, all City Council members. Howard serves as secretary to the board and City Manager George Wood is ex officio member of the board.

Recommendations made by the utility committee come before the full City Council for approval.

School Board to discuss KMMS nurse

Kings Mountain District Board of Education will hear plans for CARE, the health component of the middle school student support program, to provide a full-time nurse at the Middle School at Tuesday's 7 p.m. meeting at the Administration Office Building.

A first-time grant application by CARE for funding was turned down but Cleveland County Health Department will pick up the tab for the cost of the salary and the KM system will be asked to provide an office for the nurse.

The system's Parent Resource Center at West School will be recognized as a winner of a 1994

Governor's Program of Excellence in Education award.

Patsy Walker, director of Kids, Etc., the before and after school program, will report on its current status to the board.

Information on the system's performance on report card measures as compared to cluster and state results will be shared by Supt. Dr. Bob McRae.

The board will consider the purchase of a ten foot section of property adjacent to Grover School.

The February meeting date has been changed to Tuesday, instead of Monday.

Grover sets public hearing on zoning map

GROVER - Grover Town board will conduct public hearing March 21 at 7 p.m. on the town's first zoning map.

Max Rollins, chairman of the town's first Planning and Zoning Board, presented a color coded map to the board Monday and asked Council to set the date for a public hearing.

Mayor Ronald Queen said townspeople will be encouraged to give input at the meeting.

A copy of the ordinance will appear in The Herald prior to the special meeting.
