New programs set at Cleveland Community College

Cleveland Community College's Microcomputer Systems Technology Department will offer three new certificate programs which start during the spring quarter. The one-year programs will be offered for both day and night students.

The program is designed for students desiring knowledge and skills in configuring, installing and troubleshooting microcomputer systems, including hardware components, data communications devices, and software installation.

The Business Information Certificate will teach the skills necessary to use the personal computer to control, manage and maximize the information available in the modern business.

The Certificate in Business

Publications and Presentations is concentrated in the design, creation and production of presentation and publications using the microcomputer.

For more information, call 484-4111.

CCC will offer a creative writing class March 8-24. The class will center around writing fiction, specifically the short story. The class will meet each Tuesday from 6:30-9:30 p.m. in room 2008 and registration will be held at the first class meeting. Cost is $35 but North Carolina residents age 65 and older may take the class free. For more information, contact the Continuing Education Department at 484-4015.

CCC will hold spring registration Tues., March 3 from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. and from 4-8 p.m. in the Campus Center Building. Pre-registration payment day for returning students in Tues., Feb. 22 from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. and 4-8 p.m. in the Campus Center Building. For more information on classes or registration, call 484-4107.

Accelerated Reading Program big hit

In November West School began an aggressive program aimed at promoting reading and reading comprehension.

After students read selected books they are able to take a computerized test that checks their understanding about what they read.

If they are at least 60 percent successful on the test they can earn points which then earn them rewards.

The program has been so successful that the school goal of 3000 points has already been met. Several individuals have already earned their way into the Principal's Club with 75 points or more. In addition, 70 percent of all third, fourth and fifth graders have earned a minimum of 10 points or more. Many students are seen in the library or hallways before or after school reading a book.

Students who have earned 50 or more points are Chasity Parker, Virginia Neisler, Brian Davison, Renee Hamrick, Christopher Bennett and Ian Blanton.

Those earning Principal's Club honors with 75 points or more include Tony Bryant with 101.6 points, David Moschler with 120.4 points, Drew Neisler with 115.3 points, Lindsay Gaffney with 179 points, and David Phannareth with 95.5 points.
