

The Proud Shall Bow Down

The proud evergreen stands in defiance of winter. Unlike many trees, winter cannot ravage her lush emerald cloak. She reigns supreme, surveying God's creation from a lofty throne, arms spread wide, standing erect in regal majesty.

Yet, when the snow covers her domain, she, too, bows to the earth, in deference to the Creator, as her branches bend with the weight of winter ... and she is even more beautiful.

Psalm 22:29 proclaims, "Yea, to Him shall all the proud of the earth bow down."

As we bow in worship to our Maker this Sabbath, may we be aware that we are ever more regal when wearing the stately cloak of humility.
