Southern Arts exhibit planned

Members of the Southern Arts Society will exhibit at the Arts Center, 111 S. Washington St., Shelby, during the month of March.

The Society was started in 1984 and currently has 18 active members. The group began a scholarship program in August of 1988 and since that time scholarships have been given to 24 students totalling $16,754. Last year, three scholarships were given to Shelby students and one to a Kings Mountain student. To raise money for the scholarship program, members make calendars which feature a different Society member artist for each month of the year. The calendar pages are transferred to a silk screen and individually printed. Each page is signed and numbered by the artist. In 1984, 150 calendars were printed and the number has increased to 600 calendars printed in 1994. The profits from the calendars also pay for workshops and support various projects.

Officers for 1994 are Margaret Dixon, president; Bonnie Price, vice president; Sara Moore, secretary; and A.B. Snow, newsletter coordinator. The Society meets monthly on the second Thursday of each month from January through June and September through November.

The exhibit may be viewed from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The public is invited. For more information, call the Cleveland County Arts Council at 484-2787.

We're Fighting Cancer With Everything We've Got

To say we treat cancer here is an understatement. We battle it. With everything we've got. And we've got a lot. We cover every aspect of the disease, from providing information about preventative measures, to early detection, to treatments, to follow-up. We are truly state-of-the-art, in equipment and in expertise.

A Major Cancer Center

So thorough is our approach to this disease the American College of Surgeons has designated us a Community Hospital Comprehensive Cancer Center. And that, appropriately, is the name you'll see on our newly expanded facility at Gaston Memorial. To achieve this status we had to meet a criteria for treatment, staff expertise, patient and family care, and data collection that equals or exceeds other cancer programs throughout the United States.

The Weapons

There is no single approach to the treatment of cancer. So we employ all the best weapons available. For radiation treatment we have recently added a second state-of-the-art linear accelerator, a device that can target and attack tumors with pinpoint accuracy. In chemotherapy, we use the latest cancer fighting drugs, some of which have minimized side effects dramatically.

And when surgery is required, a patient will find himself in the hands of some of the finest surgeons anywhere, recruited from throughout the United States. But no one physician works alone with a patient. At The Comprehensive Cancer Center, treatment is a team effort, utilizing all the brain power and talent we have.

Hometown Ways

We may be a major cancer center, but we haven't overlooked or outgrown the patient's needs for warmth and understanding and a caring attitude. People who have had cancer know just how important that is.

God forbid you'll get cancer. But if you do, be glad you live in and around Gaston County.
