Student Sarah Anderson makes sure Principal Sherrill Toney gets thoroughly soaked in the dunking booth during West School's recent celebration of the success of its Accelerated Reading Program.

West celebrates reading success

Since November West School's third, fourth and fifth graders have participated in a new reading program called the Accelerated Reader. The objective was to read as many library books as possible, to pass a computer generated test on each book read, and to earn points for each test passed.

As students earned points they were rewarded with buttons, ice cream, hats, and the opportunity to go out and play putt putt and eat pizza if they made the Principal's Club. In order to make the Principal's Club, students had to earn a minimum of 75 points.

A total of 24 students made the Principal's Club and were rewarded with a trip to play putt putt on May 25. Students making the club were Chasity Parker, Miles Summerrow, Brian Davison, Annie Phanthalack, Renee Hamrick, Lindsey Gaffney, Leah Hall, Lee Owensby, Maegan Spicer, Toney Bryant, Brandon McClain, Drew Neisler, Lindsay

Betler, David Phanareth, Chris Bennett, Matthew Echols, Nathan Carpenter, Virginia Neisler, Katie Bennett, David Moschler, Stephanie Rikard, Ian Blanton, Nicole Baliles and Erica Odems.

In addition to the third, fourth and fifth graders, second and third graders were allowed to participate beginning in March. They did so well that two of the second graders, Erica Odems and Matthew Echols, earned enough points to make the Principal's Club.

The program was a huge success. Students more than doubled the school's goal of 3,000 points with a final point total of 8,390. Because of making the goal all members of the Principal's Club and at least 24 other children were given the opportunity to participate in dunking the principal on May 20. All students had a great time watching the dunking, and Principal Sherrill Toney was dunked many times.
