

Calvary Way homecoming set Sunday

Calvary Way Holiness Church will celebrate homecoming Sunday, August 21 at 1 p.m. at the Grover Community Center.

Friends and former members are invited to attend and take a well-filled basket.

Rev. Clifton Morgan is pastor. The church began on August 19, 1984 as Wayside Church of the Living God Mission. The church opened its doors in a rented building on Highway 74 near Kings Mountain. There were only four people present that day.

Three years later the church was set in order as a full-fledged church in the Living God Conference. In October, 1989, the church moved to another building on Longbranch Road. Through the years at least six members have been called into the ministry.

Only July 10, 1994, the last service as Wayside Church of the Living God was held. The congregation left the Church of the Living God Conference and became an Independent Holiness Church. The church is still located in the same building on Longbranch Road.

Carlina Moonlighters at St. Matthew's

St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, 201 North Piedmont Avenue, Kings Mountain, will host the Carolina Moonlighters Sunday, August 21 at their 11 a.m. worship service.

This group is the Hickory Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartets in America. The Carolina

Moonlighters are presently in their 20th year of existence, while the International Organization is in its 56th year. It has established an international charity to which all chapters donate money. The charity is called "HeartSpring," a hospital in Wichita, Kansas, which treats speech and hearing impaired children. From that comes the group's slogan, "We sing that they may speak." All monies collected are donated to either the HeartSpring Hospital or to a local charity. No money is kept for the group. Approximately 25 members of the Carolina Moonlighters will be presenting "sermon in song" at St. Matthew's. Dr. Joe Glass will be giving a verbal message unifying the varied musical offerings into a single theme.
