

Your pennies big help to county's homeless

Pennies for the homeless, a Christmas-giving project of the Cleveland County Coalition for the Homeless, will be collected through December 21.

Half-pint milk cartons have been donated by Carolina Dairy for the project which is involving churches, civic groups and individuals donating their pennies to help the less fortunate have a brighter Christmas.

Donors who contribute as much as $50 will be rewarded with certificates of appreciation. More milk cartons are available by calling Patty Bridges at 481-1055.

Bridges suggests last-minute gift suggestions in the form of T-shirts from the Coalition. In white with a black and gray screen print, the caption reads "Just Another Night On The Town" and shows a person huddled in a shop doorway. The shirt is $10.

In 1995 the fundraising committee will publish its first cookbook. Recipes are now being accepted from Cleveland County residents. Mail your favorite recipes to Beth Biggerstaff at Cleveland County Coalition, Box 2953, Shelby, 28151-2953.

"Eleven months is too long for the mayor to have to break tie votes and we need to fill the seat," he said.

McCarter asked how many other seats had been left vacant and the mayor said he could not recall any that had been left vacant for more than a couple of months.

Queen said the board could name Ellis' successor from the community at large, it could name the next highest votegetter in the recent election or leave the seat open until the next election.

"If you don't like the decisions put us out at the next election," said the Mayor. Several people from the audience concurred with the statement.

Authorized the mayor to negotiate for a metal building or rent of an adjacent building to house city-owned equipment stored behind a fence at Town Hall.

"We have $150,000 worth of equipment we need to take care of," said Queen.

"You can bet we will," said Saltz.

Rowland made the motion to leave the seat vacant and Spivey seconded it.

Spivey made the motion and Sides seconded it to name Rowland mayor pro tem, a position held by Ellis.

Retired teacher Elizabeth Troupe called for the board members to treat each other more civilly and conduct the city business civilly.

"I cringe at the idea my government is dealing with fellow citizens in the language they use to express their opinions," she said.
