

Former KM woman unforgettable

Angela Lyon Hinton was recently selected by Revlon Cosmetics as the winner from South Carolina and a grand prize winner from the United States in the company's Unforgettable Women of 1994 contest.

Hinton, who was the state winner from South Carolina in 1993, was prompted by a Revlon executive to enter again this year. The advice paid off for Hinton, who was notified in August that she was not only the 1994 winner from South Carolina, but was one of five grand prize winners out of the United States.

The contest, in its fifth and final year, is a nation-wide search to find women who exemplify Revlon's "unforgettable" image. It was open to all female U.S. residents age 18 and over. According to Revlon's president, Ron Pearlman, models who already represent Revlon's Unforgettable campaign, such as Cindy Crawford, Claudia Schiffer, Veronica Webb, and Lauren Hutton, are not only beautiful to look at but are also intelligent, talented, spirited, and caring people who each do many things to contribute to society. This year's Unforgettable Women of 1994 contestants were judged on the same criteria.

The five grand prize winners each received a check for $10,000 and a three-day trip for two to New York City to receive the grand prize. Hinton and her husband, Donny, were flown by Revlon to New York City. While there, they had a busy and exciting schedule. They attended the Unforgettable event, where Hinton was presented her $10,000 check by super-model Veronika Webb.

Hinton, who is a native of Kings Mountain, is the daughter of Thurman and Amarylly Lyon who live in the Bethlehem Community. She is a 1984 graduate of Kings Mountain High School. As a young person she became involved in modeling and pageants with the help of Joan Baker, also a native of Kings Mountain and owner of Joan Baker's School of Personal Development, Modeling and Pageantry located in Kings Mountain.

Hinton still believes strongly in personal development for herself and strives to help others. She is currently a teacher in the Cherokee County School District. She loves teaching young people, conducting workshops for educators, and attending graduate school. She holds a Master's degree in Elementary Education and an Educational Specialist in Guidance and Counseling from the University of South Carolina. She is currently pursuing a doctorate in curriculum and instruction from the University of South Carolina. In her spare time, she is involved in charitable work for her community. She resides in Gaffney, S.C. with her husband, Donny, who owns Brown Furniture Company of Gaffney.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Washington, D.C. - September 10, 1994 - Oakie's Tire & Recapping, Inc. retread plant located in Shelby, N.C., has earned an "A" rating, the highest presented by the Tire Retreading Institute (TRI), a division of the National Tire Dealers and Retreaders Association (NTDRA).

Earned by only about 300 of the Nation's 1,800 independent retread plants, this coveted award is presented after a retread plant rates superior in every area of its operations.

Adherence to strict standards designed to insure the highest possible quality products is the primary criteria for the respected TRI "A" rating.

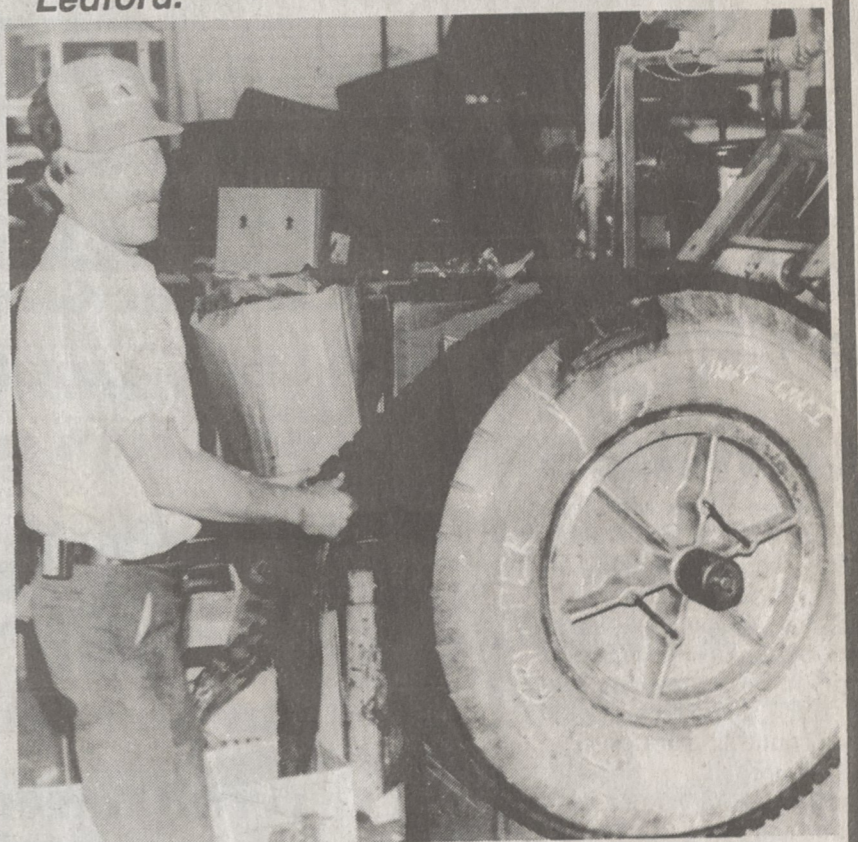

During the detailed day-long evaluation, a TRI retread consultant examines material quality, equipment, manufacturing procedures and employee performance.

At the conclusion of the inspection, an 18-page report is prepared and evaluated to determine the final rating for each individual retread plant.

"I wish to take this personal opportunity to congratulate you and all of the employees of your retread plant for achieving this outstanding recognition...for a job well done...in providing a quality product," NTDRA president Don Dobbs wrote in commending Oakie's Tire & Recapping, Inc. of Shelby's achievement.

NTDRA, with headquarters in Washington, D.C., includes nearly 4,800 independent tire dealers and retreaders in all 50 states and more than 30 foreign countries.
