Labonte wins at Pocono

LONG POND, PA. - Terry Labonte capitalized on teammate Jeff Gordon's error to win the UAW-GM Teamwork 500 at Pocono Raceway Sunday. It was Labonte's second win of the 1995 NASCAR Winston Cup season.

Gordon led 124 of the 200 laps but missed a gear shift on a restart with six laps remaining. Leading at the time, he tried to get a jump on the restart when his mistake caused very high RPM's and engine failure, dropping him to a 16th place finish.

Ted Musgrave finished second with Ken Schrader, Sterling Marlin and Hut Stricklin rounding out the top five. Bill Elliott, Morgan Shepherd, Dale Earnhardt, Michael Waltrip and Brett Bodine completed the top ten.

Labonte started 27th but steadily moved to the front group of cars. Nicknamed "The Iceman" for his cool moves on the track, Labonte darted around Gordon's ailing car to lead the final laps. Earnhardt struggled with an ill handling car most of the race. Mark Martin's car lost power at the end dropping him to 11th. Rusty Wallace spun out while running with the leaders with only 12 laps remaining. He fell to 17th. Kyle Petty dropped out after 118 laps when his engine failed.

Stricklin continues to surprise fans and contenders alike with his third consecutive top ten finish in the Kenny Bertstein Ford.

The next NASCAR event is Sunday's Miller Genuine Draft 400 at Michigan International Speedway.

Mounties to play in passing league

Kings Mountain High's new football coach Ron Massey has been on the job for just a week but he and his staff and players are already working hard to make the 1995 season a successful one.

The Mountaineers went through their annual three-day mini-camp last week, and now Massey is gearing his thoughts toward entering his offensive skill people and defensive coverage people in a summer passing league against Gaffney, Dorman and York high schools.

Each Monday, Tuesday and Thursday throughout the summer the players will be in the weight room, and full practice will begin on July 31.

Massey, who turned out state playoff teams at Raleigh Enloe and Fayetteville 71st before signing on with KMHS, said he was very pleased with the turnout and progress made in last week's mini-camp.

"We had 52 to 62 people each day (ninth through 12th graders) and we accomplished more than I thought we would," he said. Massey said several other Mountaineer hopefuls are involved in summer basketball and baseball and did not participate in mini-camp.

"We had a group of parents that fed us on Wednesday night and we had a good meeting with them," Massey said. "I was happy. We got a lot accomplished in three days."

Massey said Kings Mountain and the three South Carolina schools will play their passing league on Tuesday, June 20 at 6 p.m. (tentative), and again on June 20 and 27 and July 11. Present plans are to play all of the games in Gaffney because it is the central location among the participating schools.

In a passing league, Massey said each school takes its quarterback, receivers and running backs and they primarily run option plays and throw the ball. Defensive players participating are "cover kids" - linebackers and the secondary. Massey said competing in the league will give the coaches an excellent opportunity to work on passing and evaluate defensive personnel.

Massey said the teams will play a round-robin format and the sessions are open to the public.

Massey said the Mountaineer coaching staff will attend the annual North Carolina Coaches Clinic in Greensboro the third week of July, and then begin turning their attention toward pre-season
