Peters, Ellis. Brother Cadfael's Penance (Mysterious Press, 1994).

A November filled with golden sunshine seemed a gentle ending to this year of our Lord, 1145, although England remained torn between those who supported the European Mary as sovereign and those who pledged allegiance to her cousin Stephen. Yet for Bro. Cadfael, this sweet autumn would bring a better harvest, a sudden wrenching break with his life at the Abbey of St. Peter and St. Paul, an urgent search for a hostage of war and a hunt for a murderer.

Conant, Susan. Black Ribbon (Doubleday, 1993).

Holly Winslow and Alaskan malamute Rowdy are at Waggin's Tail dog camp in Maine, supposedly so that Holly can enjoy a bit of rest and relaxation while she covers the camp festivities for Dog's Life. The moment they arrive, however, things swiftly begin to go awry.

McIntery, Ralph. A Cardinal Offense (St. Martin's Press, 1994).

Father Roger Dowling acquires a rare treasure, two prime location tickets to the Notre Dame vs. USC football game, the gift of an old friend. But the tickets come with a catch.

Moody, Susan. Grand Slam (Simon and Schuster, 1994).

Cassie Swann spends the evening of Lady Portia Wickham's murder at Hallbon Court, taking part in a high stakes bridge game hosted by Portia's husband, Lord Wickham. Cassie feels impelled to investigate and drawing her clues like cards, comes up with a deadly hand.
