Gibbs-Packard vows exchanged

Elizabeth Baptist Church in Shelby was the setting for the October 14 wedding uniting Kimberly Michelle Gibbs and Paul Alan Packard.

Rev. Jeff Brendle officiated the 4 p.m. ceremony for which Jo Boggs, organist and pianist; Jeffrey Ross, vocalist; Joe Collins, dulcimer player; and Mike McKee, vocalist and guitarist presented the nuptial music.

The sanctuary was decorated in an English garden theme and the reception decorations further carried out the decor.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Gary Gibbs, and her stepfather, John Elam.

She wore a white silk brocade formal-length gown designed with Sweetheart neckline appliqued with pearls and beads and enhanced by a long skirt with Cathedral train. Her hip-length veil was attached to a Camelot cap of pearls and sequins and she carried a bouquet of peach roses, larkspur, gardenias and ivy.

Erin Lamb of Portland, Oregon was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Tracy Johnson, Cynthia Gould and Lori McKee, all of Shelby.

They carried tea-length gowns of peach brocade and carried bouquets of peach roses, white gardenias

Jeremy Packard, cousin of the bridegroom, was ringbearer and Carrie Gibbs, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

Victor Wayne Packard II of Charleston, SC, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Groomsmen were Mark Sheriff, David Steeves, Brian Johnson and Bart Lee, all of Shelby. Jamie Gibbs, sister of the bride, presided at the reg-

Lindsay Stratton and Nicholas Stratton of Portland, Oregon, cousins of the bridegroom, distributed the programs. Conrad Hughes directed the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John Elam hosted the reception after the ceremony at Vauxhall in Shelby where gardenstyle arrangements of larkspur, roses, lisianthus, stock, fugii chrysanthemums, lilies and ivy decorated the refreshment tables overlaid with white floor-length cloths topped with Battenburg lace. The four-tiered wedding cake was topped with fresh roses and gardenias and was cut and served with punch and party re-
