PROMOTED AT CCC - Jean Francis of Grover has been named Dean of Arts, Sciences and Public Services at Cleveland Community College.

Francis promoted at Cleveland Community College

Jean Francis has been named Dean of Arts, Sciences and Public Services at Cleveland Community College. She previously served on the faculty as Instructor of Psychology and Sociology and has worked in various capacities during her career at the college as both a student and employee.

Francis began at Cleveland Community College as a student in 1970. Midway between completing her two-year associate degree in the medical secretary field, she accepted a job as secretary to the vice-president.

Shortly after receiving her degree, she worked as assistant bookkeeper in the college's business office. While working full-time, she continued her education, completing her bachelor's degree in business management from Limestone College.

Francis' career took another turn at Cleveland as she moved to the college's Student Services Department as a student counselor and later as Director of Financial Aid. She completed her master's degree in guidance and counseling from the University of South Carolina during this time. She has also completed further graduate work at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Francis began teaching as part of her job requirements and later became a full-time instructor. In 1994, Francis was named as the recipient of the Excellence in Teaching Award at CCC.

Francis is a board member of CODAP and the Grover Library Board. She is an Elder and organist at Shiloh Presbyterian Church in Grover, is a member of SOCIATION, and is a member of the Grover Area Women's Club. Francis is a native of Grover and has two children.
