Brooks Student of Month

Jamie Brooks, Kings Mountain High School senior, was recently selected Student of the Month.

An honor student, Brooks has been a varsity cheerleader for four years and was voted Most Outstanding Cheerleader. She is also treasurer of the Beta Club and is a member of Good Hope Presbyterian Church.

Brooks is the daughter of Jim and Gail Brooks of Kings Mountain and the granddaughter of Robert and Delores Edgerton of Kings Mountain and Linda Gordon of Bessemer

City. Her goal is to teach school after graduation from Winston-Salem State Teacher's College where she has been accepted for the fall term.

Kathy Goforth, who instructs computer applications, says of Jamie, "Jamie starts my day with a positive attitude. She is a hard worker and a good student and I enjoy having her in my class."

Michelle Sivy, who instructs Chemistry II, said of Brooks, "Jamie is very enthusiastic about all aspects of school. She is very strong in her academics and she contributes significantly to our school and is truly a joy to teach."

Sally Hendricks, who instructs Algebra III, said of Brooks, "I thoroughly enjoy teaching Jamie. Not only is she an excellent student but she is also a nice person and she brightens my day."

Students of the Month are selected by teachers based on criteria which not only includes performance in the classroom but for best all-around attitudes as positive role models.

Dr. Engel to present program at KM High

Dr. Elliot Engel will present "The Tortured Genius of Edgar Allan Poe" April 9 at 7 p.m. at B.N. Barnes Auditorium.

Admission is $2 for students and $4 for adults. Tickets may be purchased at Mauney Memorial Library, Cleveland County Arts Council, or at the door.

Hamrick Teacher of Month

Guidance Counselor Florrie P. Hamrick has been named Teacher of the Month at Kings Mountain Middle School.

Hamrick holds a B.A. in Psychology from UNC-Chapel Hill and a Master of Education from Winthrop University. Prior to becoming a Counselor at KMMS she served as Home/School Coordinator for Kings Mountain District Schools.

Hamrick is married to Larry Hamrick Jr. They have two daughters, Lindsay, who is in the seventh grade, and Molly, who is in the sixth grade.

Hamrick said she became a counselor because "when I was a teenage I needed support and understanding from people outside of my family. My family was loving and supportive but they were suppose to be that way. The guidance and support of people who didn't owe me anything, from people who didn't have to love me or care for me, really meant a lot to me. As a guidance counselor, I hope to be that caring and supportive person that could meet the needs of our young people."

Hamrick said the most rewarding thing about her work is to see the success and contentment of the students she works with.

"To work with a student as he or she struggles through rough times, then to watch as they move on with their life with some degree of success and happiness, is very significant," she said.
