voters in the Country Club section of town.

"The complaints were not based on the physical facility, the community center, but due to the fact that the people on the west side would have to travel all the way to the community center," said White.

"A large number of citizens should not be inconvenienced for the sake of a very few." Mayor Scott Neisler, also reporting on last week's meeting of the board of elections, said the city had asked the board to reconsider its decision on the polling place and asked for a public hearing at City Hall on any changes in election procedures which the board denied. "They felt the Kings Mountain Hospital was a more geographic location and so their decision stood and our requests really fell on deaf ears," he said.

Neisler said the board's contention was that it would be setting a precedent to hold a public hearing in one municipality when it conducts elections for all other towns in the county with the exception of Boiling Springs.

"We owe to the citizens to be aggressive in this matter and not just roll over," said White. "When citizens go to the lobby of Kings Mountain Hospital they are going to be very upset and they'll ask why we didn't do something about it."

The 1965 Voting Rights Act gives final approval for voting changes to the U. S. Justice Department and Corry said anyone can file objections.

cook-off and local teams plan to participate in that event and also cook barbecue, chicken, ribs and beef brisket. Teams can deep fry, smoke, grill or cook the turkeys using any method. It is a no-hold barred competition and local cooks say that will be an interesting evening of good food and fun.

Fifty judges from around the country will decide the winning entries by sampling the pork ribs, chicken, beef brisket, pork butt and/or whole hog.

North-Carolina based teams have an excellent shot at a cash prize, The Governor's Trophy. The team from North Carolina scoring the overall highest points receives $500 cash, an impressive trophy and a certificate signed by Governor Hunt. The second place winner gets $300 and third place wins $150.

Cookers may also compete for the title of "Best Barbecue Booth" and the title of "Miss North Carolina Queen Hog" which determines the most visually appealing pig. Barbecue hash will also be judged in a separate category with its own award structure.

"Many of the cooks vend their award-winning barbecue to the public and the many regional differences in barbecue and styles can be tasted in the variety of sauces, dry rubs and the heat source," say local cooks. Sauces differ in color, texture and vary from peppery to sweet and from hot to mild. The heat source, charcoal or wood, accounts for the distinct regional flavors of barbecue. Also, the meat can be cooked in an open or closed pit, skinned or unskinned and basted or rolled.

The Blue Ridge Barbecue Festival, sponsored by the Polk County Chamber of Commerce, features two days of non-stop music featuring Michael Reno Harrell, Seconds Flat, Lil' Malcolm and the Houserockers, Dixie Deluxe, Debbie Davies and more plus The Foothills Craft Fair and a host of activities such as line dancing, juggling, and story telling, rides, games and more for the kids.

Local people can get to the festival by taking I-85 south from Kings Mountain to I-26, exit 36 at Columbus, turn right, head toward Tryon and look for Barbecue signs.
