KM Woman's Club winners named

The Kings Mountain Woman's Club recently announced the winners in their literary, music, and art competitions. Students at Kings Mountain High School, the winners were in many cases also top scorers at the District and State level.

Winner in the poetry competition was 10th grader Adam Hall. Senior Elise Mayes took top local honors for her essay. Short story winner was 12th grader Paula Mercer. Fellow 12th grader Jennifer Inman was also a poetry winner.

In the art category, senior Bobby Patat won the first prize for his dye craft batik wallhanging. Patat also won first place in the District and will go to the State level. Photographer Tiffany Ely took first place for her black and white shots at both the local and District level. In the painting category, Rhyne Jones took first place for his work at the local level.

In the musical category, vocalist and weight lifter Jenny Goforth won at the local and District level. Jenny will also go to the State Art Festival in Winston-Salem. She has been accepted at Belmont University in Nashville, Tennessee where she will major in performing arts.

Kings Mountain High School senior Meline Paula Miller, daughter of Darryl and Vivera Blanton, won the Kings Mountain Woman's Club Sallie Southall Cotten Scholarship of $500 for 1999.

President Betty Gamble and the Club chose Miller because of her high scholarship abilities, and her commitment to succeed. Academically, Miller has taken the most difficult curriculum offered and participated in a wide variety of activities as well as worked part time. She also tutors 3rd graders and was a Junior Volunteer.

At Kings Mountain High School, she is a member of the National Honor Society, Beta Club, and has been named to Who's Who. She has participated in musicals each of the past four years in school. She is active in the French Club, FCA, Students Against Violence Everywhere, Tennis, and Key Club. She was president of the Bible Club in the 10th grade and was a representative to SPO in the 11th grade. She also participated in the Senior Play.

After graduation, Meline plans to attend Gardner-Webb University.
