Gospel sing raises $7,000 for Hospice

A big gospel sing Saturday night at Barnes Auditorium raised nearly $7,000 for Hospice of Cleveland County.

"It was really a celebration of love," said Jim Belt of Belt Ministries. Belt and his wife, Brenda, decided to sponsor the gospel singing after the death of Brenda's mother, Lucy Seath, at Wendover in November.

"We saw just how much Hospice care meant for Mom and we plan to make this benefit an annual event in Kings Mountain," he said.

City Manager Jimmy Maney, who is regarded as Kings Mountain's popular "singing manager" by those who have heard him perform with Fifth Sunday, assisted Belt in emcing the event which drew more than 500 people.

Other gospel groups besides Fifth Sunday and Belt on the program included Southland of Gastonia, Beacons of Charlotte, and Billie Hicklin and Rev. Steve Accors of Kings Mountain.

Walmart of Gastonia led off the contributions with a check for $1,000.

Free drawings for Bibles and tee shirts and free refreshments featured the event.

A standing ovation went to the finale for the show, a duet by Jim Belt and Terri Lee of "Serenaded by Angels." Ms. Lee was a frequent visitor to Hospice and was often seen standing in the halls singing the hymn to the terminally ill patients.

Myra McGinnis Hamrick, Hospice Director, accepted the donations and expressed thanks to Kings Mountain area citizens for their support.
