Summer Reading Club begins Friday at library

There will be magic around Mauney Library as it kicks off "Rounds and Rounds of Stories" in the Summer Reading Club Friday at 10 a.m. in Josephine E. Weir Auditorium.

Rose Turner

Librarian

Midyette Magic of Shelby will present a dramatization of "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain."

The kickoff program will officially begin the Summer Reading Club and children can begin their vacation reading. Children's Librarian Christy Key will distribute reading logs and Summer Reading Club buttons featuring the mascot Boomer.

Boomer is a creation of noted author and illustrator, Glen Rounds. Rounds has donated his art work to the State Library for use in the Summer Reading Club. He has written and illustrated over 135 books for children, including "The Three Billy Goats Gruff," "Ol Paul the Mighty Logger," and "Mr. Yonder."

Born in 1906 in a sod house in the Badlands of South Dakota,

Rounds grew up in Montana where he learned to draw. His art work is characterized by a love and appreciation of animals, nature, and the environment. He now lives in Southern Pines with his wife, Betty. At the age of 93, he is still drawing and writing. His new book "Beaver" was recently released.

So here we go, 'round and 'round the library with Rounds and Rounds of Stories. There will be programs for all age groups, with 9 to 12 year olds meeting Mondays at 10 a.m., 3 to 5 year olds meeting Tuesdays at 10 a.m., and 6 to 8 year olds meeting Wednesdays at 10 a.m. The play group will continue to meet Thursdays at 10 a.m. and Smart Start materials will be available from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. as usual.

The Summer Reading Club will end with a Storytelling Festival July 24. Storytellers from the area will meet with the children who have met the requirements for completion of the program and who will receive certificates. Storytelling session will be held throughout the morning. Children are encouraged to make up their own stories and tell them in a special session.

This summer will be packed full of fun and adventure. So, see you 'round the library. You won't want to miss it.

New books on the millennium

Books on the millennium at Mauney Memorial Library:

Bowers, Barbara, et al. "1000 Years, 1000 People; The Men and Women Who Charted the Course of History for the Last Millennium" (Kodansha International, 1998).

Here is a list of 10,000 of the most important, influential, and intriguing figures of the past millennium.

Golbert, David, ed. "Eyewitness to America: 500 Years of American History in the Words of Those Who Saw it Happen" (Random House Inc. 1997).

From 500 years of diaries and memoirs, letters and reportage, the editors have pieced together a fascinating montage of our nation that offers new perspectives on familiar and not so familiar events.

Crichton, Judy. "America 1900: The Turning Point" (Henry Holt & Company, 1998).

This sweeping narrative, filled with humor and compassion, opens New Years Day, 1900 and follows an electric group of men and women over the course of one remarkable year.

Duncan, David Ewing. "Calendar; Humanity's Epic Struggle to Determine a True and accurate Year" (Avon 1998).

In this irresistible volume, the author takes us on an extraordinary journey through man's reckoning of time.

Edelman, Benard. "Centenarians; The Story of the Twentieth Century By Americans Who Lived It" (Farrar Straus and Giroux, 1999).

This is a dazzling tapestry of life in America that weaves together rich and poor, black and white, immigrants and native born Americans.

Filder, Deborah G. "A Century of Women; The Most Influential Events in the Twentieth Century Women's History" (Carol Publishing Group, 1999).

This book chronicles those events that have revolutionized womanhood, and hence, society as a whole, in the past 100 years.

Howard, Michael and William Roger Louis, eds. "Oxford History of the Twentieth Century" (Oxford University Press, 1998).

Of all the centuries in recorded history, none has seen more change, none has ended more differently than it began, than the 20th century. In this ambitious book, distinguished historians survey the momentous events and the significant themes of the 20th century.

Reston, James. "The Last Apocalypse; Europe at the Year 1000" (Doubleday, 1998).

The decades around AD 1000 marked a chaotic turning point in European history. This is an enthralling popular history of how threatened Christian kingdoms converted, conquered, and slaughtered their way to dominance and by doing so ushered in a new civilization.
